

Set Friday at city hall

City offers program to mark valuables

Romulus residents will have the opportunity Friday, Dec. 16 of having their personal valuables marked for identification by police at city hall.

Mayor William M. Oakley said, "During every Christmas season, a large number of portable, usually valuable items, such as CB radios, are given as gifts, and far too many end up in the hands of thieves, never to be seen again for lack of proper identification."

The mayor said that an officer from the Wayne County Sheriff's Romulus patrol will be on hand after 1 p.m. at city hall to mark valuables brought in by city residents.

Items that will be accepted for marking include small appliances, radios, small television sets and other items easily handled or carried.

Oakley said that if the trial project proves to be successful it will be continued beyond Friday. Residents desiring further information are asked to call the sheriff's patrol at 942-9660 between 8:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m.

Residents get more services

Sec. of State, court house, fire station to make debut

A new Secretary of State's office opening next week, along with a new 34th District Courthouse and fire station to be completed in early 1978, will highlight increased services offered the residents of Romulus.

A $1 million federal grant made the court and fire headquarters possible, while Richard H. Austin, secretary of state this week announced the state would open the new license plate branch office.

Scheduled to open Monday, Dec. 19 under the management of Ronald Koss, the Secretary of State branch office will be located at 36539 Goddard Rd., in Romulus.

"I'm happy to see more facilities moving into the city to serve the residents," said newly-elected Mayor William M. Oakley, who stressed citizen services during this recent campaign.

The new Secretary of State office will offer a full range of services, including driver licensing, vehicle title and plates, and personal identification cards.

It will also process voter registration applications and watercraft and snowmobile registrations. Office hours for the new Secretary of State facility will be from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Father rips board on pupil transfer

The father of one of the 38 students scheduled for transfer Dec. 1 from Hale Creek Elementary School to Mt. Pleasant Elementary School has filed a written protest with the school board superintendent of schools.

The board was expected to consider the matter at its meeting Monday night. The letter, dated Nov. 23, was sent by Daniel Doss on behalf of his daughter, Kimberly Ann, a student in the sixth grade at Hale Creek School, to Supt. James Garfield and all seven school board members.

Doss' letter referred to two written messages from the school administration Nov. 22 and 23. The first stated that 38 students would be transferred on a voluntary basis, and if an insufficient number chose to transfer, the balance would be taken from students who enrolled last at Hale Creek.

The second letter from the administration to parents of sixth grade students carried a list of the children who were to be transferred.

Doss, who wasted no time in replying to the school administration, began his letter: "I ask that this communication serve as an official protest against the unfair and discriminatory way of placing the sixth grade in Mt. Pleasant School."

He accused the administration of not giving him sufficient time to seek legal advice or to make a decision on whether to accept his daughter's transfer.

Doss also charged the decision to transfer his daughter and the other 37 students was "a violation of the Civil Rights laws."

Further, he declared, his daughter was one of the first students to enroll at Hale Creek and that the school board had not defined a boundary change to comply with "state or federal laws."

Doss asserted that his daughter, Kimberly, was "a very happy, contented girl at Hale Creek School." Since being notified of her transfer to Mt. Pleasant, he said, she has been "upset and ill."

He also charged that he and his wife "have been caused undue hardships and unnecessary expenses and loss of wages from work seeking legal advice."

Doss requested the board to give immediate consideration to his letter for "the injustice that has been or will be committed to all parties involved."

His letter concluded with Doss asking that the board and its representatives be responsible for any expenses incurred and be held accountable for psychological or physical damages that may occur to parties affected "by this unjust decision . . ."

Deputies prove that they care

The Goodfellows of Romulus held their annual Christmas newspaper sale Saturday and the Romulus Division of the Wayne County Sheriff's Department came through 100 percent. The 40 staff members of the local division all contributed to the Goodfellows' cause. Officers Bill Wadsworth (left) and Mike Terpevich (right) present a check for $125 on behalf of the Romulus Division staff to Fire Chief John Wilhide, who worked actively in the Goodfellows drive. "We're concerned that every family in Romulus has a happy Christmas and are pleased that our Romulus Division staff gave 100 percent to the Goodfellows," Wadsworth said. Goodfellows Chairman Fred Williams and Co-Chairman Jerry Kubiak said they figure this year's donations will enable them to help a record number of needy families in Romulus. The Goodfellows motto is: "No Kiddie Without a Christmas". If anyone wants to donate to the seasonal benevolent fund-raiser, they can call Wilhide at 941-0666.

Canejo to study problem

Council to probe seating; members don't hear well

By JIM BRADLEY
ANP Staff Writer

Should City Council members face the audience or each other in transacting business at its meetings?

Is a button or light system necessary when Council members want to be recognized by the chairperson?

These two questions and others will be dealt with by Councilman Gerry Canejo who has been authorized by his fellow councilmen to study a possible new seating arrangement for the legislative body of the city.

Canejo, who was Council President the past two years, feels strongly that the members should face each other.

"I had problems hearing council members when I was chairman and also had difficulty seeing who had their hand raised to be recognized to speak," he said.

The soft-spoken Canejo, who won his second consecutive term in November, is currently visiting council chambers of other cities to see how their seating arrangements are.

"Personally, I'd like to see a horseshoe-shape or V-shaped table," he said. He also pointed out that he would like to see the City Clerk and possibly the City Attorney seated next to the Council President while business is conducted.

In recalling his term as Council President, Canejo said, "I would have liked to have been able to look right at a council member when talking with them or recognizing them. But the council table is not curved much at all and I had to look at the side of the other council members' faces."

Canejo was disappointed that he was the only person selected to study a new seating arrangement. "I would have liked to have seen other council members, the mayor, and possibly others involved on a committee to study possible seating changes."

The dark-haired councilman has visited several city council chambers with his wife, including Taylor, Woodhaven and Gibraltar but hasn't found much help so far.

"Most of neighboring council chambers are only about half the size of our large chamber and so it's hard to get workable information," he said.

He said he intended to visit Wayne, Westland and Garden City among other local cities to see their chamber setup and what procedures they use in conducting a meeting.

Meanwhile, the new Council President, Mary Ann Banks, agrees some changes in the shape of the council table would help.

"I can tell after several meetings that things could be improved," said Mrs. Banks, who finished first in the Nov. 8 balloting to win the Council Presidency in her first try at public office.

"A horseshoe-type would be feasible -- also, someone suggested a lights system to help council members to be recognized by the Chairman."

Mrs. Banks said there was one major change she would like to see made in transacting council business.

"I think simple motions, like to adjourn, could be made by saying Aye rather than taking a roll call vote on every single issue."

Oakley: "2 good years?"

Santa gets requests

Santa Claus arrived Friday night in Romulus, not in his sleigh, but atop the fire department's attack-pumper truck, with some 350 adults and children greeting him at the city hall. He was accompanied by Christmas Carol, his cheerful assistant.

Coinciding with his coming with the lighting of the city's giant Christmas tree on the city hall grounds.

Dressed in his perennial red and white Christmas outfit, Santa was escorted up the ramp and into city hall by Mrs. Marie Debusch, recreation director, for his annual visit with local youngsters.

The biggest "youngster" to sit on Santa's lap and request his Christmas present was Mayor William M. Oakley, who asked the bearded gentleman for "two good years."

The crowd was served hot chocolate, coffee and doughnuts while Santa was busy giving each boy and girl who showed up to greet him a bag containing fruit and candy.

During the festivities, Christmas carols filled the air, sung by members of the Community Methodist Church.

This year's turnout was down considerably from last year due to the extremely cold weather, bad road conditions and road construction in front of the city hall on Wayne Road which closed that entrance.

According to Jay Young, chief public information officer, many who came to attend the annual event, turned around and went back home, after seeing the entrance to city hall closed.

DON'T RIDE WITH STRANGERS

Sheriff's program cautions children about 'strangers'

William Lucas Wayne County sheriff, has announced the initiation of the department's new program, "Don't Ride with Strangers".

Lucas said: "Be ever mindful of the tragic events which have taken place during the winter months in our area."

The Wayne County Sheriff Department has taken the initiative to contact as many children as possible in the elementary schools in Western Wayne County to impress upon them that they should not, under any circumstances, take a ride with any strangers, he added.

Officers of the Wayne County Sheriff Department will be going to different schools addressing assemblies in conjunction with the various school boards and PTA organizations in order to get the message across.

The first in a long series of presentations was Wednesday, Nov. 23 at Merriman Elementary School in Romulus. The program consisted of a half hour instructional movie and recommendations from sheriff deputies as to what children should do if accosted by a stranger and other procedures which parents and teachers should follow in assuring the protection of school children to and from school.

The Sheriff's Department has printed several hundred bumper stickers in order to impress upon all school age children not to ride with strangers. The program is being funded by the men and women of the Wayne County Sheriff's Department through their employee organization.

For further information, contact the Wayne County Sheriff's Road Patrol, Youth Bureau, at LO-1-5880.

Operation Paintbrush

Operation Paintbrush, a program to supply paint to senior citizens, handicapped and low or moderate income persons, is a big success in Romulus, according to those running the program. Funded through the Grants Department and Romulus Neighborhood Center, Operation Paintbrush was further helped by Romulus Help Center, which furnished names of many senior citizens who took part in the project. Mr. and Mrs. Myron Jones of 8510 Farnum, Mike Inch, who planted their entire home on his free time. "Mike has shown much compassion and we commend him for his dedication," said Joyce Palmer, director of the Romulus Neighborhood Center, and her assistant Sue Kemp. "Because of a job well done and our pride in this young man," Sue and I treated him to a steak dinner to show our appreciation," Mrs. Palmer said. Mrs. Palmer further announced that the paint program will continue the first of the year. "Of course, we must wait for 'Mother Nature' to be on our side," she smiled. Projects not yet completed will be completed first and those who have not contacted the center can still do so by calling 941-1390.—Photo by Fred Nelson.

Parents, teachers host dinner

Some Romulus school children and their parents worked together with teachers to add a more meaningful touch to this past Thanksgiving season.

The first grade classes of Mrs. Diane Golka and Mrs. Beatrice Morgan, with the assistance of Mrs. Golka's student teacher, Kathy Smith, and many parents, combined to sponsor a Thanksgiving dinner at Hale Creek school.

Included in the well-attended dinner for the students, parents and relatives, was roast turkey with all the trimmings.

It was served in the holiday atmosphere of the school's cafetorium, which had been appropriately decorated for the occasion by the artistic hands of the children, according to the teachers.

A special feature of the day was the children's dramatic presentation of the play, "The First Thanksgiving Feast".

In addition, children also performed choral readings of several poems.

"We want to express our gratitude to the students, parents and all others who made this Thanksgiving Dinner such a tremendous success and beautiful time of sharing with others," Mrs. Golka and Mrs. Morgan said.

According to the teachers, "The whole gala event was enthusiastically received by the Hale Creek community which joined Supt. James M. Garfield, school board member Wayne Avery and Principal Art McPharlin praising the unified effort of all concerned."

Garfield, Avery McPharlin, in turn, congratulated the teachers for a job well done.

'Mr. Branch Office' retires from Juvenile Court post

John M. Neville, affectionately known by his colleagues as "Mr. Branch Office", retired officially Saturday as director of the out-county office of the Wayne County Juvenile Court.

For the last 15 years Neville's office has been located at 3000 Henry Ruff Road in Westland, moving there from Inkster where he had established a branch office of the county's juvenile court in 1953.

In honor of his retirement, he was feted with a party Nov. 30 at the Airport Hilton Inn in Romulus by judges, friends, associates, police officers and government and school officials.

After more than 39 years on the job, Neville, who hails from Farmington, is the dean in seniority of the more than 500 employees of the Juvenile Court.

Public recognition of his years of devoted service also came Nov. 30 from the Wayne County Board of Commissioners who proclaimed that Wednesday "John Neville Day".

When Judge James H. Lincoln, recently retired, served as toastmaster at Neville's party, he was returning a similar favor performed by the juvenile court director for the judge's retirement party a few weeks earlier.

Reflecting back upon his years in juvenile court, Neville has seen many changes take place.

He commented: "We're not more of an adversary court than I believe was ever intended we should be."

Neville said today's emphasis on legal proceedings is at odds with the juvenile court's original philosophy of functioning as a specialized court for children, whose aim was to protect and correct children.

Currently, the out-county branch office has a load of more than 500 cases at one time. Approximately half are resolved through counseling, eliminating the fillings of formal court actions.

Overseeing a staff of 24 employees in an area comprised of some 1.25 million people, Neville's job at retirement is a far cry from the four employees serving a population of 345,000 residents back in 1953 when he first became director.

Although Neville supports the idea of diverting some of the juvenile cases to community agencies for assistance, he disagrees with the Governor's Juvenile Justice Commission. That body favors the removal of status offenders, such as school and home truant and disobedience, entirely from the jurisdiction of Juvenile Court and placing them solely in the hands of community agencies.

"There are many who are hard-core, persistent offenders who began their delinquency careers as status offenders," he noted.

He declared that oftentimes children prefer

Honored at party

and authoritative approach, refusing to go to a community agency for help.

He added: "There was a time when children had more respect for their parents and others in authority, but today, peer pressure is too great."

After serving as a probation officer in the Juvenile Court from 1938 to 1953, Neville was named by Judge George Edwards to organize the out-county branch office of the court, at the special insistence of area chiefs of police.

Neville, in addition to director, also served as Traffic Court referee for out-county juvenile cases.

Also, he is a charter member of the Western Wayne and Downriver Safety and Traffic Committee, having served as past chairman of both groups.

Neville is well known in the sports world, having served as an interscholastic and intercollegiate athletic official and referee for area high school basketball games.

Neville and his wife, Anne, are parents of four grown children. After his retirement became official Saturday, he announced they would vacation for several months.

Very Interesting

Romulus High School is becoming well-known all over the state for its work in the field of career education. The State Department of Education is so enthused over the local program that it has duplicated 100 copies of the film strip RHS showed of their concept. E.L. Sheffield, director of Career and vocational education at R.H.S. and Dr. Paul Kuwik, career education consultant at Eastern Michigan University, were the innovative planners behind the well-received concept which is being used by school districts around the state. Sheffield is shown with School Supt. James M. Garfield as he examines a copy of the film strip.

VA explains death benefits

Veterans in Michigan were reminded that they have many benefits that their families should be made aware of in case of their death.

Frank J. Kilcullen Jr., director of the VA regional office in Detroit, said the VA will pay $250 toward the burial expenses of veterans who served during periods of conflict and did not have a dishonorable discharge.

There also is a $150 plot or interment allowance, if the burial is not in a national cemetery or other government cemetery.

These VA payments will be reduced or eliminated in cases where the veteran's employer or a state agency has made such payments. In cases where a veteran's death is service-connected, VA will pay an amount not to exceed $800 in lieu of the usual burial allowances.

The VA director said the VA also provides a headstone and a burial flag for the casket.

Kilcullen pointed out that veterans may be buried in national cemeteries, which have space available. Space is also provided for a veteran's wife or husband, minor children and, under certain circumstances, unmarried adult children.

This benefit is available to all peacetime and war veterans if they did not have a dishonorable discharge.

Ford hails switch

Drastic elimination of more than 1,000 "nit-picking" regulations under the Occupational Safety and Health Administration was hailed this week by Congressman William D. Ford (D-15th District), one of the authors of the original OSHA legislation.

"This is another clear signal that we finally have administration which understands the needs of both the business community and the worker," Congressman Ford said. "Although we did not plan it that way when we created OSHA, it has been developed by the bureaucracy into an agency which seems to spend more time harassing businessmen than developing job safety."

Congressman Ford's comments followed an announcement by Labor Secretary Ray Marshall that he plans to revoke some 1,100 regulations which have no direct effect on worker health or safety.

Scheduled for elimination, for example, are toilet seat requirements, height specifications for mounting fire extinguishers, and 10 pages of rules for portable wooden ladders.

In addition, new inspection procedures will be adopted which will, in most cases, eliminate citations and penalties for violation of rules which have little or no bearing on employee safety.

Congressman Ford, a member of the House Committee on Education and Labor, played a major role in the drafting and enactment of the OSHA legislation in 1970.

"Our intent was to eliminate serious hazards in the workplace," Congressman Ford recalled. "Unfortunately, over the years, the agency adopted rules and regulations which went far beyond this goal, and which literally made OSHA a laughing-stock among both employers and employees."

Skiing 'visits' parks

One of the most popular activities this time of year at the Huron-Clinton metroparks is cross-country skiing.

"Make your own ski path" is what winter enthusiasts do at Metro Beach Metropark near Mt. Clemens, Stony Creek Metropark near Rochester-Utica, Kensington Metropark near Brighton-Milford, Hudson Mills Metropark near Dexter, Lower Huron Metropark near Belleville or Willow Metropark between New Boston and Flat Rock.

Cross country skiing is prohibited on all golf courses and in nature study areas.

Developed ski trails for cross-country skiing are located at Stony Creek Metropark and Kensington Metropark — and both parks are scheduled to offer cross-country ski rental service starting Saturday.

Other winter activities include hills for tobogganing and sledding.

Ice fishing and ice skating will be available when the lakes freeze over at Metro-Beach, Stony Creek and Kensington metroparks.

For details contact the metropark of your choice.

An editorial opinion

One of the New Deal's really bad deals

For the past several years, the U.S. Social Security system has come under attack for a multitude of reasons, chief among them, is the ever-increasing burden that the system is placing on the shoulders of middle-class America.

Since the inception of Social Security in 1932, the system has been criticized for its lack of flexibility in keeping up with the increasing demands on its resources.

The federal government, rather than establish a plan that would provide a fund for the operation of the system, has simply placed social security payments in the general operating fund, and has drawn benefits from the same source. Now, with the advent of improved health care and the consequent lengthening of our life expectancy, the Social Security system is being strained to near the breaking point.

Economic experts now claim that the end of Social Security is in sight, and that the thousands of Americans who have contributed to the plan for their entire life, and for that reason had not invested in a private retirement fund, may soon find themselves without any financial support at all, at retirement.

For the past few weeks, Washington lawmakers have been studying new rate increases for Social Security. Those increases will more than double the cost of the system over the next six years, raising the current rate of about $976 for a middle-class income earner to a staggering $2,000 in 1980. But the proposed rate increases are absolutely necessary if the system is to survive, and financial support of the nation's elderly is to continue.

The root of the problem with the Social Security system, and the reason that the system can never be expected to provide the promised benefits to contributors, lies in the fact that Social Security is not a retirement plan. It is rather an income transfer system whereby money is collected from those still in the work force, and paid out, the same day if you will, in benefits to those eligible.

Any true retirement fund on the other hand, collects payments from its members, invests those payments in income-producing areas, collects interest for the use of those payments by others, and pays benefits from the subsequent fund that has been created. In that way, it is possible for the principal amount within the fund to remain almost the same even while payments may not necessarily cover the cost of paid out benefits.

Example: Let's assume that the Social Security system is a bank with five teller windows for collecting payments and one window for paying benefits, and the salary for the six people who must work the windows is equal to the collections from two of the tellers windows. At any given time, there will be six people standing at the windows. Five will be making payments, and one will be receiving a payment. As the five tellers receive the Social Security payments, they collect it, deduct the cost of their salaries, and walk to the sixth window and give the money to the person receiving benefits. None of the money went into the bank's vault. None of the money could have been used to invest in the community or to earn interest to help defray the costs of the program.

On the other hand, the private sector's retirement plan is equivalent to a full-service bank. Money from the five collecting tellers will be deposited in the bank's vault and subsequently loaned to individuals and businesses in the community. The interest income from those loans is applied to the operating costs of the system, and to help pay cost outlays for the recipients of benefits. But, because the income to the fund was used to help create additional income, the overall costs and benefits are much different.

Social Security currently provides a single person with a maximum benefit of $437 per month, or $5,244 per year. In addition there is a death benefit of $255. In addition, the maximum benefit is only paid to those who have contributed to the plan for many years, at the upper end of the contribution scale.

A private retirement plan, providing $600 per month at age 65 now costs $853 per year, as compared to the Social Security System's charge of $1,952 ($976 from both employee and employer). Today, that $1,952 per-year figure, if invested in a private plan, could provide an individual 18 years old with a retirement income of more than $400,000 at age 65. That same $1,952, could provide a 30-year-old, with more than $200,000 for his retirement at age 65, and the same $1,952 per year could provide a person 40-years-old, with more than $100,000 for retirement at age 65.

It is clear to see from the foregoing that Social Security is not a very good deal. It is no deal for the country, and certainly is not a good investment for our citizens.

We think that it is time for our elected officials to finally concede that government bureaucracy is not conducive to efficiency. Not only is Social Security a bad deal for everyone concerned, it is far too costly to administer.

At a time when Blue Cross boasts of returning more than 95 cents of every dollar to subscribers, Social Security only returns 60 cents.

Raising Social Security rates is not the answer to the Social Security problem. It is time for a complete overhaul of the system, and the decision by the government to get out of the retirement business altogether.

The 'New Deal' created some bad deals, and Social Security is definitely one of them.

Bald Eagle Speaks

Men's 'Lib' needed

By BOB AMEEN

With all of the talk going on about the women's liberation movement, little thought is being given to men's rights and how they often are abused.

One of the best examples is that of the man who is divorced by his wife after many years of marriage. Invariably, the wife is given custody of the couple's children and is awarded a specific sum each month in child support and alimony by the judge.

Now forced to maintain a separate domicile for himself and required to pay out a sizable portion of his take-home to his ex-wife, the ex-husband soon finds himself, in most instances, in dire financial straits.

Compounding the problem are the "visitation rights" so graciously allowed by the judge. This ruling will permit the father to visit his own children from once a week to once a month, depending upon the circumstances involved.

Apart from the fact that half of the men did not want the divorce in the first place, half of the women do not wish to be divorced either.

What are the men's rights that are being violated?

Since the children represent half of each parent biologically, each of the parents should be entitled to half of their children's time, whether it be a week at a time or six months out of each year. Only in a small number of cases does a father get such visitation rights, usually if he can afford a high-priced lawyer, or if the judge is lenient, or a combination of both.

As for the child support and alimony, what happens to some fathers after a divorce is unfair and inequitable. After making his monthly payments, to his "ex", the father usually has enough left to rent a small room somewhere, pay for his food (usually out) and incidentals. His car payments get further and further behind and he soon finds himself on the verge of bankruptcy.

Since both the father and the mother should share equally in their children's welfare, would it not be more fair for each to contribute to a separate fund set aside for their upkeep and care? Possibly, each could contribute equal percentages toward the total cost determined to care for the children, say 35 percent, with the balance to be paid by the parent with whom the children reside.

Under this type of arrangement, possibly neither mate would be so eager for a divorce, especially the woman, who heretofore, knew that she would get the lion's share of the whole rotten mess.

Yes, men do have rights, too, and quite possibly, a movement should be undertaken to obtain them, much in the same way that the fair sex has chosen to exploit and publicize their drive for "equality", etc., etc., etc.

Although the subject of divorce and its often ugly ramifications is the most flagrant offense perpetrated against men by women and the courts, there are other "rights" that men could and possibly should ask for and receive.

Oftentimes, these "rights" are those that ask not to do something as well as the right to do so.

Why should it always be men who fight the wars? Should there not be more male elementary school teachers, more male nurses, more male secretaries, more male "blah, blah, blah" (in the vein of the women libbers)? Some feminine activists act as if everything should be female, including fathers!

To get down to brass tacks, why should an old, sick man give up his seat on the bus or train or plane to a young woman in the pink of health? Whoever gets there first should be the criterion, if we are to listen to members of the distaff side.

If men were to conveniently forget such accepted gestures as opening all sorts of doors for women, letting the woman proceed first through a doorway, letting her order her meal first, and a million and other taken-for-granted little amenities, this world we know would turn into one monstrous scramble from dawn until dusk. This would eliminate the need for the Olympics.

Quite possibly in today's society, most men are still being gentlemen, while the ladies are trying to become the same.

Editor's Log

A brush with justice

By DENNIS FASSETT
Managing Editor

During the course of the normal working day around here, I receive pounds of press releases from various organizations which wish to have their message presented to Associated Newspaper readers.

The burden of wading through the releases falls primarily on the handsome shoulders of my news editor, Sue McDonald. She separates the material that will be of interest to readers in our circulation areas and discards the rest.

Normally included in the piles of incoming mail are items that are specifically addressed to me or otherwise of such a nature that they may be of particular interest to me; those Sue piles on top of the other rubble on my desk.

Today in that pile I found a press release from Circuit Court Judge George T. Martin. In that release he announced that he had just been re-elected to the post of chief judge pro-tem by his fellow members of the bench.

That announcement by the judge brought back a flood of memories of my youth spent in Dearborn, while Judge Martin was sitting on the bench at Dearborn Municipal Court.

The evening of Sept. 5, 1954, I had spent in pursuit of the affections of a girl from Dearborn High School who lived in West Dearborn.

At about 1 a.m. the next morning I was returning to my parents home in East Dearborn via Michigan Avenue in my vintage 1942 Ford coupe.

Now, that old Ford could make just about 62 m.p.h., with a strong tail wind, and on the evening in point, there I was shaking along at about 60 m.p.h.

In my rear view mirror I saw two cars approaching at what the police would describe as "high rate of speed." I was in the middle of the three-lane-divided road and the two cars passed me, one on the inside and the other on the outside, at a speed that I guessed must have been about 90 m.p.h. They were followed shortly by a flashing red light, also moving about 90 m.p.h.

As the police car went by me, I chuckled in the knowledge that the two violators of public safety would soon get to their just reward.

About two miles up the road, I came upon the two cars pulled over alongside the road with the police officer writing tickets. Smug in my innocence, I approached the scene, but to my surprise, the officer waved me over to the side of the road also. Thinking that law and order must need a witness to the incident, I pulled over.

As I got out of the car, the officer ordered me into spread-eagled position against the rusted side of my Ford. Aghast at the situation that was developing, I asked the officer to explain what I had done to deserve such shoddy treatment, especially since I had stopped to be a witness for the prosecution.

The cop told me that he was writing me for reckless driving, doing 85 m.p.h. zone. In spite of my protests, I received a ticket, and was ordered to appear in Judge Martin's court on the 12th of the month.

Following the initial shock, I realized that there was no way that any judge could find me guilty of such an offense since I was innocent.

I was soon to learn that the old saw, about anyone defending themselves in a court of law having a fool for a client, was indeed true.

Watching the wheels of justice turn in the courtroom that day was an educational experience. The arresting officer was apparently more concerned with his image than justice. Rather than relating the facts, I had the distinct impression that he was more interested in defending his actions.

The honorable Judge Martin, on the other hand, was not at all impressed with the 18-year-old long-haired 'punk' who was standing before him. From his honor, I gained the impression that I had already been judged guilty, and nothing short of divine intervention would save me.

With all of the witnesses heard, I was judged guilty of the offense and sentenced to pay a $50 fine or serve 15-days in the slammer.

When I informed the judge that I did not have the $50, and to make matters worse, was scheduled for induction into the Army three days hence on the 15th of September, the judge replied, "In that case son, you will be in trouble with both us and the Army."

Congratulations, Judge Martin on your new appointment, and also for teaching me more about justice in the 30-minutes I spent with you, than I could have learned from all of the textbooks at the U of M in four years.

Health Beat

The people of the ER

By RUSS TUTTLE
Director, Community Relations
Peoples Community Hospital Authority

"At my first job as an RN, I was paid $30.00 per month plus room and board. We were not covered by social security in those days, so we took home most of our pay."

Bessie Hawkins, RN, was talking to me as we sat in the endoscopy room which is part of the Annapolis Hospital ER.

Mrs. Hawkins, who long ago was nicknamed Sadie by the late Dr. Angel of Wayne, graduated from the Toledo Riverside Hospital School of Nursing in 1934. She said that when she was in training, her salary was $12.00 per month plus room and board.

She added that the standard work day for nurses was, at that time, 12 hours: from 7:00 a.m. to 7:00 p.m. and vice-versa. Most of her 43-year career in nursing has been spent either in an operating room or an emergency room. "I went into the OR as a second-year student, and never found my way out," she said. Thus, she finished her training as a most experienced OR nurse.

When she first began her work as a nurse in an ER, Mrs. Hawkins said "we did everything. For instance, during those long 12-hour days, we cleaned, sterilized, and packed instruments for the OR, prepared IV's, made applicators, rolled cotton balls, cut gauze for surgical sponges, and even made plaster for the orthopedic men."

She said that sulfa was the principal medication used to combat infection when she first started in medicine. "Then came the first of the so-called wonder drugs, penicillin. And now, of course, there are many new medications which are so effective in treating disease.

As Mrs. Hawkins left the room to assist a doctor with a new patient in the ER, I was lucky enough to bump into a much younger nurse who was representative of today's training and philosophy. Her name is Kathy Sellier, LPN I. Kathy is a 1970 graduate of Wayne High School and the Ann Arbor School of Practical Nursing. Kathy is age 25, while Mrs. Hawkins will soon reach the magic age of 65.

"I've been an employee of Annapolis Hospital since 1974, and the last few months I've been assigned exclusively to the ER. Working in the ER is exciting, and a bona fide challenge to your ability to adapt to changing situations," she said.

We were talking about the psychology of nursing and she related an amusing story. "Not too long ago, we had a very young male patient who had cut his foot on a rusty tin can."

The wound had been cleaned and treated, and the doctor had ordered a tetanus shot. The little guy's tears had dried up, and he was eying me suspiciously as I approached with a hypo to give him the shot. I could sense his fear, and said that as soon as I was done, I'd give him a sucker (there is a large box of suckers in the ER to be used for just such cases). He saw the sucker, looked back at me and the hypo, and said, "Gee whiz, nurse, I don't really feel like a sucker today."

Oh well, so much for the psychology of reward!

Kathy Sellier is a nurse because she likes people and likes to work with them, "and I enjoy the teaching aspect of my profession." By teaching she was referring to work done with diabetics in diet and exercise instruction, amputees in their rehabilitation programs, and such related activities.

"When people come into, or are brought into the ER, they are frightened, and I suppose I'd feel the same way. So a major part of our job is to establish a rapport with those people and reduce the tensions, which of course makes the doctor's job easier. There are those times when a patient, perhaps a drunk or one zonked out on some other drug besides alcohol, can be pretty nasty and abusive. We learn quickly not to take anything too personal and we simply go about our business as efficiently as possible.

"But abusive patients, thank God, are the exception. Most of our patients appreciate what the staff does for them, and sometimes they drop in months later to say thanks, or they send a card or box of candy. While such gratuities are not expected, it's a nice feeling to know that you've helped some one through a difficult time and that person has thought enough of you to respond with a kind word or gesture."

We'll finish this series on the Annapolis ER next week with a conversation between a physician and another RN with many years of experience.

From the State House

Single Business Tax, target for the Senate

The Michigan Legislature is fast approaching the end of this legislative year with many important issues to be decided before we adjourn December 15. The most prominent of these issues is our effort to amend Michigan's Single Business Tax. Since the Legislature adopted the Single Business Tax in 1975 and thereby eliminated the corporate income tax, Michigan's small and low-profit businesses have been financially devastated.

Originally, the Legislature believed the Single Business Tax would balance Michigan's revenue picture by taxing payrolls as opposed to profits. Yet just the opposite has taken place. Michigan's Single Business Tax, while solid in concept, has placed a greater tax burden on small and labor-intensive businesses while those large and highly profitable corporations in Michigan have experienced a windfall under the tax.

Because of the controversial nature of this issue the process of revising the Single Business Tax has been a long one. In September of this year the Michigan Senate approved Senate Bill 734 which proposed a major revision of Michigan's Single Business Tax. This proposal would lower the tax rate for small and low profit businesses while increasing the tax paid on corporate profits. Senate Bill 734 would not only lower the tax rate for those small businesses but would also provide a gross profit alternative for businesses with less than $25 million in gross receipts. Full benefits under that alternative would be available to businesses with gross receipts under $5 million.

That proposal was rejected by the House of Representatives which essentially prefers the tax as it is.

A conference committee of State Senators and Representatives began to work out a compromise revision of the Single Business Tax, however, the basic disagreement over the amount of tax relief that should be provided and the base upon which the tax is levied continues to stand in the way of any agreement. Just recently the committee received a proposal from House members that would have allowed small and low profit businesses to reduce their adjusted tax base by up to 25 percent. However, that proposal was changed one day later to allow a reduction of the tax base by up to 50 percent. Neither of these proposals has received committee approval.

The issue of revising the Single Business Tax is critical for a number of reasons. First, unless the Legislature can reach a compromise on this revision before the end of this year those businesses which are paying a disproportionate share of this "value added tax" will be subjected to the same inequities for another year. Second, it is important that we replace this tax with a formula that will consider a firm's ability to pay and its profit margin. Currently, the Single Business Tax does not take these issues into major consideration.

The State of Michigan must have a strong tax policy and business climate. Because of the nature of our state with its high industrial output and its dependency on his employment a solid tax policy is crucial. At the same time we can ill afford to sit back and take no action on a problem as serious as the Single Business Tax for fear of promoting instability in Michigan's business sector. It is important the Legislature take action on this problem and attempt to resolve the inequities.

While the conference committee examining the Single Business Tax is closer to an agreement than when it convened November 8, it is difficult to predict whether that agreement will be reached before the end of this year. In my

The Majority Leader
State Senator William Faust
13th District

role as Senate Majority Leader I am urging members of that committee to come to an agreement so that Michigan's business community will not have to wait a full year before obtaining relief from the present inequities in our tax structure.

From Romulus City Hall

New Post Office, a Romulus challenge

Several articles have appeared in this paper over the past few weeks dealing with the move to bring a new post office to the City of Romulus. I would like to take this opportunity to elicit your support and inform you, the citizens of Romulus, about this project.

As everyone knows, who has had to deal with the Federal government, a project of any magnitude is fraught with problems, delays, red tape and seemingly endless hassles.

In the past, the key to dealing successfully with the feds, has required patience, stamina and perseverance of almost superhuman proportions.

Thus, knowing what we face, you may wonder why we even bother to seek a new post office, or for that matter, take on any huge entrenched and organized bureaucracy whom we perceive has wronged us or is treating us less than equitably.

The answer is: because times are changing; this project is possible; our position is a just one; and such a facility is desperately needed by our citizens.

Let me briefly describe the background of the situation, as it exists today.

Several years ago, the U.S. Postal Corporation, after having recorded progressively larger operating deficits since becoming a semi-autonomous corporation in 1970, was placed under an austerity program. In their attempt to realize a balanced budget, or at least a decrease in the amount of money lost each year, the Postal Corporation cut back services, closed or merged operations and drastically curtailed plans for expansion.

Unfortunately, Romulus was singled out, in Western Wayne County, to have its postal operation severely cut back, the vast majority of the operation being transferred to the neighboring City of Taylor.

The fact that Romulus is larger than Taylor in area, and that the Romulus Post Office takes in approximately a quarter of a million dollars every month, and that our city is achieving yearly record growth, apparently was totally ignored in the decision.

Recently, my predecessor received a letter from the Postmaster in Detroit, inquiring about the need for a new post office in Romulus.

That letter, coupled with the improved financial condition of the postal service and a new president and administration dedicated to a more responsive Federal Government, leads me to believe that now is the time to assert our rights and take whatever steps necessary to insure that a new post office is built in our city in the near future.

For years Romulus residents have had to endure the presence of a giant nine-square-mile airport, carved out of the center of our city. We have suffered in silence, as another Federal agency, the FAA, handed down ruling after ruling with little regard for the wishes or well-being of our citizens. The result is a gaping hole which divides our community, both physically and psychologically.

The postmaster's positive action for our new post office will in some measure compensate our city for the inconvenience the airport causes us and demonstrate in a tangible way that the Federal bureaucracy does care and is concerned with the people who support it with their taxes.

The Romulus City Council just passed a resolution citing its concern and desire that this matter be judiciously settled.

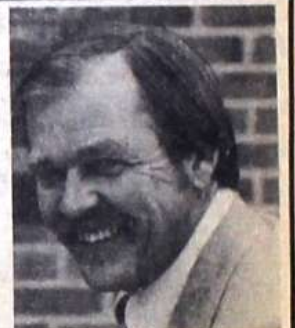

However, I need the help and support of the citizens of Romulus. Action is often facilitated after a substantial number of people become involved. High school government students are now earning credits for obtaining signature. One way to directly express your feelings is to sign a petition demanding a new post office.

Petitions are available in the Public Information Office at City Hall, or we'll be glad to send you some. There are only 20 spaces for signatures on each petition, and to be eligible to sign, a person need only be a resident of Romulus.

The Federal Government currently owns 2.66 acres of land adjacent to the Municipal Center. It is zoned correctly for a postal facility and has all utilities. A new post office constructed on that site would not cost Romulus taxpayers an extra dime in taxes, because of the tax exempt status of federal properties.

Help me make this dream become a reality. Call or write City Hall, 11111 Wayne Rd., 941-0666, Ext. 20 and take an active, positive role in securing a new post office for our city. Sign a petition and return to the City Clerk's office for notarization.

Working with you for a better Romulus.
Sincerely,
William M. Oakley
Mayor, City of Romulus

The board should dispel distrust

To the Editor:

In the December 7, 1977 issue of your paper the headline read, "School trustees face recall". The article that appeared with this headline mentioned that the actions of the present school board as suspect. The board can dispel some of this distrust by showing the residents of Romulus the various resumes of the seven who applied for the school board. This can appear in the Roman.

Surely, the board's decision making process will vindicate their decision by showing the residents that Mr. Wood stood head and shoulders above the rest of the applicants on the basis of his qualifications.

It is apparent from their selection that none of the other candidates had degrees over the bachelors level nor, possessed proven business experience which would surpass that of Mr. Wood.

On the other hand, if the board fails to take this action, it will only serve to prove that they are involved in some type of cover up which is responsible for the mis-handling of Romulus school funds, children, and related areas.

Freedom of the press, but...

Dear Roman,

I am writing this letter for publication after the city election.

"Freedom of the Press" is a right granted to you in the "Bill of Rights". Since July of this year your paper has called for a clean campaign for the city election that has just passed. But yet, you, our city paper, instead of projecting good public relations image for our city have shown us nothing but negative aspects.

If your heart is really for Romulus you should tell the citizens why it is good to live in Romulus.

The best bumper sticker to come out of this city was one that said "TAKE PRIDE IN ROMULUS". Right now, not later, this city needs that more than anything.

I don't understand your rationale regarding your endorsements of candidates.

Without naming candidates because I really don't want this letter to be political I will try and give you an example.

You say experience counts but yet you back candidates who have yet to be tested. Then in another endorsement you say this person isn't that sharp but reclaimed him anyway. I don't understand this line of thinking!

Commissioner says

State is cause of youth home overcrowding

The state itself is cause of the overcrowding and chief threat to the license and funding of the understaffed Wayne County Youth Home, charge County Commissioners Jack L. Currie and Edward K. Michalski.

The two commissioners, respective chairman and vice-chairman of the Human Resources Committee, made that declaration after a tour of the Youth Home Nov. 30. The tour was taken following reports from the State Welfare Department that the high Youth Home population violates license regulations and generates other serious faults.

On the day of the tour the inmates numbered 257. The facility was built to house a maximum 215.

Mrs. Currie and Michalski pointed out, however, that 103 of those presently incarcerated are wards of the state kept in the county facility because of lack of space in state institutions.

The youth home is meant to serve only youths awaiting trial. Once convicted, a juvenile becomes ward of the state and should be transferred to a state institution.

"There is no question that the youth home is over populated—this has been common knowledge for some time," said Mrs. Currie. "What is generally not known is that the state causes us our biggest problems there."

"It is ironic that the state is threatening us for problems due to conditions that the state is creating."

Michalski said: "We know firsthand the extent of the overcrowding, and we know the cause of it as well as the state knows it. What we must do is get the state to act to relieve its own fault."

Michalski emphasized that the criticizing report from the state Welfare Department stresses this problem. The report states: "Overcrowding has become a chronic and serious problem at the youth home in the past six months. This is an emergency situation. Overcrowding taxes all resources of the facility and is a contributing factor in all of the violations cited in this report."

Mrs. Currie and Michalski have prepared a resolution they will introduce to the full board which asks the state to remove its wards and place them in other facilities.

The resolution suggests the use of the state W. J. Maxey Training School near Whitmore Lake, which is being considered for an additional 40 beds for juvenile offenders, a proposal now blocked in the House Appropriations Committee.

It also asks for consideration of other facilities as well, and for additional funding to serve the present crisis, regardless of site selection.

Accompanying Mrs. Currie and Michalski on the youth home tour were Juvenile Court Judge Gladys Y. Barsamian, Court Executive Arthur Ruhl and Youth Home Superintendent Yancy L. Griggs.

Both Judge Barsamian and Griggs said removal of the state prisoners would relieve crisis conditions and eliminate the need for provisional licensing. Up to a maximum of four consecutive provisional licenses can be granted by the state for six-month period each. The youth home now operates on its third provisional.

"It is imperative that the state stand up and accept responsibility for its kids," said Judge Barsamian.

56 encores Yule specials

Channel 56 has reached into its bag of holiday specials and come up with a week full of Christmas oriented programs from years past.

The first holiday special of the week will be on Dec. 18 at 8 p.m. as Channel 56 presents Part 1 of "Handel's Messiah." Part 2 will be shown the next night, Monday, also at 8 p.m.

Immediately following "Messiah," Part 2 will be "The Elizabethan Christmas Special" at 9:30 p.m. This will feature the songs, dances and customs of Christmas during the Elizabethan era.

On Dec. 20, two brand new Christmas specials will be shown. First will be "Christmastime with Mr. Rogers" at 8 p.m. followed by "Sing We Noel" at 9 p.m.

Arthur Fiedler and the Boston Pops have the spotlight Dec. 21 at 8 p.m., with their festive special, "Christmas at Pops."

The Christmas classic, "The Nutcracker," will be performed on Dec. 22 at 9 p.m. by Andre Kostelanetz and the National Symphony Orchestra.

A modern day department store is the setting for "Miracle on 35th Street". This program is a series of short, humorous vignettes about the interactions of department store personnel and last minute Christmas shoppers. "Miracle" will be shown on Dec. 23 at 5:30 p.m.

On Dec. 24 and Dec. 25 Channel 56 will present almost an entire day of Christmas programming. Some of these will have been shown during the previous week.

On Dec. 24, at 4 p.m. "A Child's Christmas in Wales" will be shown. Narrated by Sir Michael Redgrave, this program is an adaptation of a poem by Dylan Thomas about his childhood in Wales. Immediately following at 5 p.m. will be a wordless interpretation of Christmas called "A Mime Christmas".

A look at Christmas, both past and present, is the subject of the next special, "A Christmas Celebration", to be shown at 6:30 p.m. An entirely new show "Christmas Around the World" is on at 8 p.m. that evening.

At 9 p.m., there will be an encore showing of "Miracle on 34th Street", followed by a short 15-minute special, "The Nativity". This is the story of the Nativity as told through the drawings of grade school children. The final Christmas presentation of the evening at 11 p.m., will be "A Christmas Carol."

Christmas cactus: It's a slow grower

The Christmas cactus (Zygocactus truncatus) is a slow-growing succulent plant composed of many toothed, leaf-like segments. Its spectacular blossoms, which look like some sort of exotic bird in flight, are worth waiting for.

For best results with the Christmas cactus, Michigan State University horticulturists advise you to shelve the idea that cacti like to be dry. The Christmas cactus can't tolerate the parched conditions under which other cacti thrive. It should be watered whenever the soil surface starts to dry out.

For the Christmas cactus in equal parts potting soil and peat moss.

Fertilize once or twice a month with a standard houseplant fertilizer when the plant is growing vigorously. Full sun in fall and winter and bright diffused light in spring and summer are best. Average home temperatures and humidity levels are adequate for good growth.

The Christmas cactus is stimulated to form flower buds under two conditions: when it is exposed to 12-14 hours of complete darkness each night; or when it is exposed to temperatures of 55 degrees or lower. To induce a Christmas cactus to bloom around the holiday, start the short day, long night treatment around the first of September and continue it until buds have formed.

Judge Zaborowski attends training class

Judge Henry Zaborowski of the 34th District Court in Romulus recently completed an intensive two-week judicial training and education session at the National College of the State Judiciary, located on the Reno campus of the University of Nevada.

The Special Court fall session, held Oct. 23 to Nov. 4, was designed to meet the judicial needs of the special court judge. Topics of the session included Role of the Judge, Search and Seizure, Judicial Ethics, Special Offender Evaluation and Treatment, Sentencing Philosophies, Jury Management and Courts and the Community.

There were 40 participants, representing 22 states, at the session. During the week the judges attended more than 20 hours of instruction and participated in approximately 15 hours of small discussion groups.

The instruction at the national college is presented by faculty members chosen from judges, attorneys, professors and other professionals who are outstanding in their fields. They volunteer to assist in the training and education of the judges in this country and receive no compensation for their services.

While attending a resident session, the judges live in university dormitories and attend classes on campus in the Judicial College Building. Learning techniques, such as role playing, workshops, demonstrations, problem solving and small discussion groups are used.

The academic setting takes the judge away from the courtroom and places him in a learning environment. Interaction with other judges from all parts of the country is stressed as part of the education process at the national college.

The national college is an activity of the Judicial Administration Division of the American Bar Association. Judge Ernst John Watts is Dean.

Your house roof generally receives the hardest wear of any part of the structure. It suffers wear and tear from the weather and from freezing and thawing temperatures. The point where the roof intersects with other surfaces, such as walls, chimneys and dormers, are subject to leaks, as are valleys — the places where two roof slopes intersect. Flashing materials provide protection from water penetration at these points. These materials are usually of galvanized sheet iron, copper, aluminum, zinc alloy, or flashing felt.

Check helps foundation

A $51,000 check has been donated to the Kidney Foundation of Michigan by District 29 of the United Steelworkers of America. The donation has allowed the foundation to expand its 1978 program by 10 percent.

The gift represents funds raised by the union's annual Charles G. Younglove Golf Day, held in June. A member of the golf outing's coordinating committee was Clarence Frye of Romulus.

The event has produced $227,000 to fight kidney disease since its inception in 1970.

Some $31,000 of this year's contribution is being used by the Kidney Foundation to pay for the interior construction and equipment needed to transform a GM motor home into a three-chair dialysis facility. This vehicle enabled the Kidney Foundation of Michigan to begin a camp program for children on dialysis this past summer.

Youthful conservations sought for work

Opportunities are available for high school students, ages 16 through 18, and college students, 18 years and older, who would like to volunteer their services to assist national parks and forest, Merck Forest in Vermont and other public conservation and recreation areas.

According to the Student Conservation Association Inc. the programs are being offered for the spring, summer and fall of 1978, and are geared to maintaining the natural resources and assisting the public in its enjoyment of those public lands.

Program announcements and applications are available from the Association by writing to P.O. Box 550, Charlestown, N.H. 03603. Detailed lists of all positions offered will be sent with the application.

Deadline for receipt of applications for spring positions will be Feb. 15, for the summer program, it will be March 1.

The Student Conservation Program offers work in more than 50 national parks and forests, Merck Forest, with the National Conservancy and other federal, state and local organizations which maintain lands for conservation and natural resource management purposes.

Selection of program participants is nationwide. High school participants work in groups for 10 to 12 students, each under the supervision of skilled personnel for a three- to four-week program. One week is devoted to hiking and exploring the area.

Some financial assistance is available to offset travel expenses and personal equipment expense for those in need. All group food, equipment and supervision is provided by the Student Conservation Association.

Participants are not paid a salary. College-aged students may spend eight to 12 weeks learning and performing duties as park and forest assistants similar to those carried out by professional park and forest service personnel. The assistants receive grants to cover travel and living expenses. No salary is paid, however, housing is provided.

The duties of the high school participants mail include trail maintenance, revegetation of areas, boundary fencing and shelter and bridge construction. College workers may carry out interpretive programs, provide visitor services, perform research and assist rangers in back country patrols.

Central marks of God's reign

God's reign is present already in Jesus Christ but it is also yet to come at the "End-Time". The central marks of God's reign are universal justice and peace. Christians are called to give witness to that justice and peace through their individual repentance and communal harmony.

Reading

A reading from the book of the prophet Isaiah
He judges the poor with justice

Is. 11:1-10

A shoot shall sprout from the stump of Jesse, and from his roots a bud shall blossom.
The spirit of the Lord shall rest upon him:
a spirit of wisdom and of understanding,
a spirit of counsel and of strength,
a spirit of knowledge and of fear of the Lord,
and his delight shall be the fear of the Lord.
Not by appearance shall he judge,
nor by hearsay shall he decide,
But he shall judge the poor with justice, and decide aright for the land's afflicted.
He shall strike the ruthless with the rod of his mouth, and with the breath of his lips he shall slay the wicked.
Justice shall be the band around his waist, and faithfulness a belt upon his hips.
Then the wolf shall be a guest of the lamb,
and the leopard shall lie down with the kid;
The calf and the young lion shall browse together, with a little child to guide them.
The cow and the bear shall be neighbors, together their young shall rest;
the lion shall eat hay like the ox.
The baby shall play by the cobra's den, and the child lay his hand on the adder's lair.
There shall be no harm or ruin on all my holy mountain;
for the earth shall be filled with knowledge of the Lord, as water covers the sea.

On that day, the root of Jesse, set up as a signal for the nations,
The Gentiles shall seek out, for his dwelling shall be glorious.

SCRIPTURAL COMMENT:

After the Babylonian exile, the prophet foresees a savior again arising from the house of David. Israel's savior will be endowed with various gifts divinely granted and will usher in a reign of justice and peace. In that reign, human beings will be reconciled within themselves and with one another, just as the whole of creation will be at-one. God's reign will encompass all people, both Jew and Gentile.

Reading 11 Romans 15:4-9

Indeed everything that was written long ago in the scriptures was meant to teach us something about hope from the examples scripture gives of how people who did not give up were helped by God. And may he who helps us when we refuse to give up, help you all to be tolerant with each other, following the example of Christ Jesus, so that united in mind and voice you may give glory to the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ. It can only be to God's glory, then, for you to treat each other in the same friendly way as Christ treated you. The reason Christ became the servant of circumcised Jews was not only so that God could faithfully carry out the promises made to the patriarchs, it was also to get the pagans to give glory to God for his mercy, as scripture says in one place: "For I shall praise you among pagans and sing to your name."

Scriptural Comment:

Paul is worried about the disunity being created by warning factions in the Christian community at Rome. The various camps are fighting over issues like clean versus unclean food. Paul advises patience and respect toward one another. Just as Jesus Christ accepted them, both Jew and Gentile, so Christians ought to accept one another, despite external, non-essential differences, so that God will be glorified by all parties concerned.

GOSPEL Matthew 3:1-12

When John the Baptizer made his appearance as a preacher in the desert of Judea, this was his theme: "Reform your lives! The reign of God is at hand." It was of him that the prophet Isaiah had spoken when he said:

"A herald's voice in the desert:

'Prepare the way of the Lord, make straight his paths.'"

John was clothed in a garment of camel's hair, and wore a leather belt around his waist. Grasshoppers and wild honey were his food. At that time Jerusalem, all Judea, and the whole region around the Jordan were going out to him. They were being baptized by him in the Jordan River as they confessed their sins.

When he saw that many of the Pharisees and Sadducees were stepping forward for this bath, he said to them: "You brood of vipers! Who told you to flee from the wrath to come? Give some evidence that you mean to reform. Do not pride yourselves on the claim, 'Abraham is our father.' I tell you, God can raise up children to Abraham from these very stones. Even now the ax is laid to the root of the tree. Every tree that is not fruitful will be cut down and thrown into the fire. I baptize you in water for the sake of reform, but the one who will follow me is more powerful than I. I am not even fit to carry his sandals. He it is who will baptize you in the Holy Spirit and fire. His winnowing-fan is in his hand. He will clear the threshing floor, and gather his grain into the barn, but the chaff he will burn in unquenchable fire."

Scriptural Comment:

Matthew presents John the Baptizer as both prophet and forerunner of Jesus. As prophet of the messianic age, John calls individuals to sincere repentance in preparation for the coming of the savior. Every person must truly repent. No one may claim exemption, even by citing membership in the chosen people of God. As forerunner of Jesus, the Baptizer displays the humility necessary for repentance. John sees himself in proper perspective before God and within God's plan. One greater than he is still to come, and John is merely preparing people to receive Him properly, that is, salvifically.

Continual personal repentance is necessary for a healthy Christian life. Harmony within the Christian community is necessary to encourage both personal repentance and loving witness, the central characteristics of God's reign of justice and peace. Without this corollary and individual Christian witness there are fewer, if any signs in this world that Jesus Christ is Lord and Savior, which would be a disaster from the Christian viewpoint.

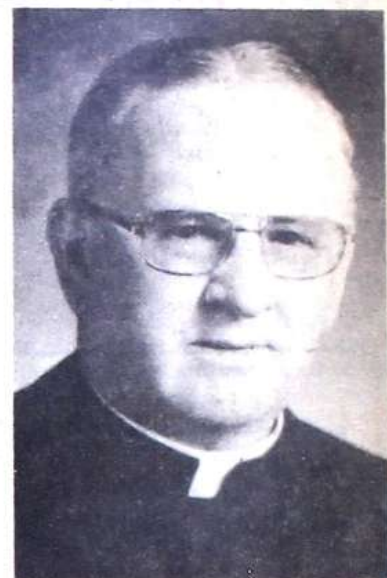

Human justice and world peace are scarce commodities in the modern world. Human rights are being denied daily in many countries around the globe. Localized wars continually threaten universal nuclear catastrophe. Justice and peace are not always very well served within the Christian churches either, so Christians cannot afford to be smug about others' failures.

Justice and peace are essential to God's reign. The ideal set forth poetically in Isaiah is based on the model of love that God has for his creatures and the whole creation. As God cherishes and promotes his creation, so also his creatures must act and react toward one another lovingly, justly and in peace. When individuals give one another what is due, not only is justice present but there is a basis for love of one another. In turn, peace is founded in proper self-love, love of neighbor, and the love of one human community for another. Until genuine love is concretely acted out in daily life, there will be no real hope for either justice or peace, the two central marks of God's reign which is indeed present already, but still to come in its fullness.

Christians are witnesses to God's reign. Like John the Baptizer, all Christians have by their baptism the privilege and duty of witnessing the God's reign, already come in Jesus Christ, yet to come fully. Concretely, Christians are called to hard work for justice and peace, in themselves individually, in the family, the neighborhood, the wider community and, when possible, in the world. Work for justice and peace means preparing the way of the Oord of Love. It also entails acting prophetically as did John the Baptizer. Responsible, constructive criticism and efforts toward needed change are part of every Christians' role as prophet in the daily mission of justice and peace.

Witnessing to God's reign requires personal repentance and corporate harmony. Like John the Baptizer, Christians themselves must take seriously the call to repentance in order to prepare for the full presence of God's reign. Personal sin is a countersign to God's full reign of life; sin is love; inordinate self-love and failure to love others. Sin frequently involves infractions of justice and breaking the peace. Personal repentance is a continual process of turning to God and to God's ideals, visions, horizons and away from selfishness, injustice and hate. In turn, personal repentance promotes love of neighbor and contributes to communal harmony, a necessary atmosphere for the growth of love, as St. Paul reminds the Romans. Personal repentance and communal harmony go hand in hand as prophetic signs of God's reign, already present but yet to come.

As we prepare to celebrate the birth of the Prince of Peace and Justice, we should firmly renew our baptismal commitment to be prophets of God's reign and resolve to take concrete steps to overcome injustice and disharmony in our daily lives. There must be someone to whom I have failed to give his or her due. There must be commissions or omissions in my life by which the harmony of the family, neighborhood and community is disturbed. There must be times when I fail to be a responsible critic in face of injustice and disharmony. Perhaps now is the time for a thorough examination of conscience and an approach to the matter of reconciliation.

VA hospitals reclaim silver

Michigan's five Veterans Administration hospitals have salvaged 4,621 troy ounces of silver from x-ray film during the past 15 months, with the VA Hospital in Allen Park leading the list.

Selling at $4.65 per troy ounce, the VA was able to add $21,487.65 to their supply funds from the sale.

The Allen Park facility collected 2,681 ounces from the spent X-ray developing solution, while the Ann Arbor hospital reclaimed 470 ounces, the Iron Mountain unit, 727 ounces, the Saginaw hospital, 391 ounces, and the Battle Creek facility, 352 ounces.

Nationwide, the VA's 172 hospitals reclaimed 287,697 troy ounces of the metal.

The nation currently consumes more than five times the amount of silver it produces, making the VA program an important contribution to the nation's supply of silver.

Florida: Relief from Michigan winters

With more exciting family attractions, white sandy beaches and luxurious accommodations than ever, it isn't hard to understand why more and more Michiganders are seeking relief from winter by traveling to Florida, according to Automobile Club of Michigan.

"Statistics show that the Sunshine State was No. 1 in the minds of members requesting routings last winter and it should be tops again this year," said Joseph Ratke, Auto Club touring manager.

Ratke noted that Michigan was second only to Ohio in sending tourists to Florida during the cold weather months.

"Sun, sand and surf still are the state's top attractions in winter, and beach renovation is under way along several stretches of coastline," Ratke said.

Miami Beach's famed golden sands are being reclaimed from the Atlantic Ocean and restored to a width of 300 feet. When finished in late 1979, the beach will stretch for 10 miles along the oceanfront.

The four miles of beach already restored have become a haven for shell collectors, with conchs, whelks and coral within easy reach of beach strollers. Beaches at Jacksonville Beach and Tampa also are being widened.

Other new attractions in Florida include waterslides modeled after Walt Disney World's River Country. They are located in Largo, Pompano Beach, Panama City, Kissimmee and Fort Walton Beach.

Silver Springs' Wild Waters aquatic park, slated to open in March, will feature a 180-foot-long swimming pool with wave-maker, a series of playpools and three body flumes.

Scheduled to open Jan. 15, Roger Brown's Miniature Horse Farm near Pompano Beach offers youngsters a chance to see, pet and even ride more than 40 of the tiny performing horses.

Not to be outdone, Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey's Circus World near Orlando boasts new historical circus exhibits in railroad cars, plus a new petting zoo.

The Dark Continent-Busch Gardens near Tampa has opened its sixth theme section, "The Congo". Visitors can ride a boat past an African still village and through a waterfall. Or, they can visit Claw Island, home of the park's 16 Bengal tigers, and tackle hair-raising rides like the "Python" and "Monstrous Mamba".

Each year, a growing number of Michigan motorists heading for fun in Florida are finding they can stay within their vacation budget by camping. There are nearly 86,000 private and 8,000 public campsites throughout the state, with heaviest pressure expected through mid-January, especially near major tourist attractions.

Hotels and motels across the state also are braced for the tourist season, with several new complexes and many others listing extensive renovations.

Miami's 556-room Omni International Hotel opened in July and will be joined in January by a two-level shopping center featuring two major department stores, six movie theaters and "Treasure Island", a family entertainment center with all the excitement and adventure of Robert Louis Stevenson's pirate tale.

Also new in Miami is the Sheraton River House, a 10-story, 251-room facility which opened in August, and the 43-suite Costa Del Sol, located on what was the last vacant oceanfront property in the Fort Lauderdale-Miami area.

Up to 90 percent of the Michiganders camping and filling Florida's beach resorts will arrive by car. Southern Michigan motorists should plan on at least 2½ days of driving time to reach the Florida state line and another full day of driving, if traveling to Miami.

The accompanying map shows the five principal routes to Florida.

Route A via I-75 is the fastest for East Michigan tourists. The 1,410 miles between Detroit and Tampa is all freeway and travels through Cincinnati, Lexington, Knoxville and Chattanooga, skirting Atlanta via a bypass. About 50 miles of the route through Kentucky and Tennessee is semimountainous. Tolls to Miami total $4.80.

With all of the 1,465-mile Route B four-lane highway, it is the most direct for West Michigan residents. The route is reached via Fort Wayne and Indianapolis. East Michigan travelers preferring Route B will go through Toledo and Cincinnati to Louisville.

At Nashville, follow Route B to Chattanooga to join I-75, or in case of bad weather, follow Route B-1 through Birmingham, Montgomery and Tallahassee to join I-75 at Lake City, Fla. Both feature almost no mountain driving. While Route B is 55 miles longer from Detroit than Route A, driving time is about the same. Tolls to Miami for both Routes B and B-1 total $4.80.

Route C meanders 1,586 miles through Virginia and the Carolinas, with four-lane highways making up nearly 1,450 miles. However, winter driving in Ohio and Pennsylvania may be hazardous and drivers should keep abreast of local road and weather conditions. Tolls total $8.65.

Route D's 1,393 miles include the mountains of West Virginia and North Carolina. While driving may prove difficult in winter, the trip is tops for breathtaking views of mountain scenery. Four-lane highways comprise 1,199 miles and tolls total $5.90.

At 595 miles, Route E, which takes in Washington, D.C., is the longest Florida route. It also is the most expensive, with $9.60 in tolls, but it offers pleasant East Coast scenery and minimal mountain driving. All but 16 miles are four-lane highway.

COMPARISON OF ROUTES—DETROIT TO MIAMI—1978*

ROUTE	MILEAGE	4-lane highway	TOLL
A	1410	1410	4.80
B	1465	1465	4.80
C	1586	1432	8.65
D	1393	1199	5.90
E	1595	1579	9.60

* Motorists headed for Miami from Kalamazoo will travel an average 70 more miles than motorists traveling the same routes from Detroit.

Have you heard about our
"No-Payment" Pre-Plan Program?

Did you know you can pre-plan funeral services at no charge? You can. It will cost you nothing at all to make your wishes known as to your choice of service, casket, music, specific readings from Scripture—even arrange for your favorite flowers and your clergyman. And these arrangements in-advance can be made without cost or obligation.

HERE'S HOW TO DO IT: First, come in and complete our Pre-Planning Form with our help. The form covers all the above-mentioned choices and many others. Second, you will receive copies of the Form for safekeeping with your lawyer, accountant, designated estate administrator or family member. Third, a copy remains with us which you may review from time-to-time and update as you require.

Pre-Payment Options:
Several pre-payment plans are available, too. If you choose to pay in advance. But pre-planning does not necessarily mean pre-payment. Stop by for full details.

Keep your own baked goods shop handy in freezer

What with the holidays just around the corner and that yearly yen for those "special" goodies, local homemakers are fortifying their pantries with extra sugar, nuts, coconut, flavorings, dried and candied fruits and chocolate bits. That's all in preparation for the big baking binge which usually occurs during the pre-holiday weeks.

Since most cooks bake "ahead", most of their efforts will go into cold storage—the freezer. And that's where preparation and wrapping know-how are a MUST.

COOKIES

Cookies as a rule keep longer in the freezer than do most other baked goods and may be stored for as long as six to 12 months. Cookies may be frozen with good results either baked or unbaked.

Almost all drop or bar cookie doughs and all refrigerator mixtures do well whether frozen in bulk or cut and spread on cookie sheets. Wrap in airtight freezer paper and seal with tape.

Baked cookies, like other foods, should be cooled completely before freezing. Pack carefully in layers in a freezer container, separating each layer with a sheet of freezer paper. Then, for added protection, even overwrap the container and seal (especially for those edibles which will be stored for longer periods.) If cookies are very fragile, freeze on trays BEFORE wrapping.

PIES

Pies, particularly fruit, berry and mincemeat, are especially good to freeze. Custard or cream-filled pies, however, tend to become grainy and are not good for freezing. Meringues tend to toughen during the freezing process and should not be used.

Fruit pies are best frozen unbaked. Do not slit the top crust of unbaked pies until just before baking; this prevents evaporation of juices during freezing.

Baked pies should be cooled completely and frozen at once. Wrap and seal with tape. Pies may be frozen before wrapping if they seem particularly delicate or too fragile to handle.

CAKE

Baked cakes may be frozen whole, in halves, in quarters or in individual servings. You may find it best to package cakes in amounts you will use at one time. To wrap for freezing, place cake on stiff cardboard with a layer of foil between the cake and cardboard to prevent sticking. Then wrap in foil, label and freeze. After cake is frozen, it should be placed in a plastic cake carrier, deep tin or in heavy cardboard box to prevent being mashed while in the freezer.

Thaw at room temperature for one to two hours when ready to serve frozen uniced cake. Or thaw in oven, placing unfrosted cake in original wrapping (use foil if you plan to use this method) in 275 to 300 degree oven for 10 to 15 minutes, depending on cake size. Loaf cake will take about twice as long. Frosted cakes should always be frozen before wrapping to prevent sticking.

Uncooked confectionery sugar frostings keep best. Candy-type icings, such as fudge and peneche, also freeze well if cake is not to be kept more than a month. If kept longer, they become brittle. Fruit and nut fillings also do well in the freezer.

Avoid boiled, 7-minute and other soft frostings which are not for the freezer. Cream fillings should not be frozen since they separate and spoil easily.

BREADS

Home-baked breads, yeast rolls, coffee cakes and other leavened goods should be baked before freezing. Also cool to room temperature before wrapping and freezing quickly after being baked.

Cranberry desserts

Almost every cook has combined raw cranberries and oranges for some version of that refreshing relish to serve with turkey or other holiday "birds".

This famous fruit "duet" — cranberries and oranges — appears together in two new desserts. Ruby accents of fresh cranberries add color, tartness and moistness to Cranberry Bundt Cake and Frosted Cranberry Bars.

Cranberry Bundt Cake, with its not-too-sweet flavor and a delicate orange glaze, could be the crowning "jewel" for a brunch, open house or company meal.

The cake may be decorated with sugared cranberries. Coat 1 cup berries in an egg white that's been beaten until foamy. Spread berries on wax paper and sprinkle with granulated sugar. Then roll cranberries in more sugar for thicker coating. Let cranberries dry for at least 2 hours before arranging around the cake.

Frosted Cranberry Bars get a tart "zing" from chopped raw cranberries and frozen orange juice concentrate. Unsulphured molasses tones down the tartness to a mellow level. These bars are a good choice when you want a snack that's less sweet than most bars or cookies.

To chop cranberries in a food processor, give just a couple quick bursts of power to one cup cranberries at a time.

To grind cranberries in a food chopper, eliminate dripping juice by using the coarse chopper blade and first freezing the berries.

Or a blender also chops cranberries satisfactorily. Consult the instruction book for the suggested procedure (amounts, time, etc.).

Extra raw cranberries can be frozen now, so these new recipes can be prepared year round. Some cooks freeze the box or bag of berries just as it comes from the supermarket. But you'll save time later if you wash the berries, remove any stray stems, and wrap in one-cup portions before freezing.

Cranberry Cake

2 cups raw cranberries
1 cup sugar
½ cup butter or margarine
¼ cup unsulphured molasses
2 eggs
1 cup buttermilk
2½ cups all-purpose flour
2 tsp. baking powder
1 tsp. baking soda
½ tsp. salt
½ cup chopped nuts
1 cup chopped dates or raisins
1 Tbsp. grated orange rind

Glaze:
¼ cup butter or margarine
two-third cup sugar
one-third cup orange juice

Combine ¼ cup sugar with cranberries and let set while preparing cake batter. Preheat oven to 350 degrees F. Grease and flour a tube or Bundt pan. Cream butter with the remaining ¾ cup sugar. Add molasses and eggs and beat well. Add sifted dry ingredients alternately with buttermilk. Stir in nuts, cranberries orange rind, and dates or raisins. Pour into prepared pan. Bake at 350 degrees F. 50 minutes. While cake is baking, prepare glaze by heating ingredients over low heat until butter melts and sugar dissolves. Let cake cool in pan for 15 minutes. Pour some of the glaze over cake. Remove cake from pan and coat with remaining glaze. (Note: Glaze may be omitted and cake sprinkled with confectioners' sugar.)

Leftover cake keeps well in refrigerator.

Frosted Cranberry Bars

½ cup oil
¾ cup sugar
½ cup unsulphured molasses
2 eggs
2 Tbsp. frozen orange juice concentrate, thawed
1½ cups unsifted flour
1 tsp. baking powder
½ tsp. baking soda
½ tsp. salt
1 cup quick-cooking rolled oats
2 cups raw cranberries, chopped
½ cup chopped nuts
Orange Cream Cheese Icing

Preheat oven to 350 degrees F. In large mixer bowl, combine oil, sugar, molasses, eggs and orange juice concentrate; beat until smooth and fluffy. Sift together flour, baking powder, soda and salt; add to creamed mixture and mix well. Stir in oats, cranberries, and nuts. Pour into a greased and floured jelly-roll pan (10½ x 15 x 1-inch) and bake at 350 degrees F. for 25 minutes.

Cool until bars are slightly warm and apply icing. ORANGE CREAM CHEESE ICING: In food processor or bowl, mix together 1 3-oz. pkg. cream cheese with 1 Tbsp. frozen orange juice concentrate, thawed. Add 2 cups sifted confectioners' sugar and beat until smooth. Frosted bars should be refrigerated.

Two more uses for cranberries

That traditional "duet" — cranberries and oranges — so popular at this holiday season are combined in two ways other than a relish. Cranberry Bundt Cake and Frosted Cranberry Bars can star at Yuletide with a little advance baking which so many homemakers are involved in these days. The cake is completed with a shiny orange juice glaze while the bars are topped with a creamy frosting made with cream cheese, confectioner's sugar and orange juice.

'Heather' is new addition to Larry Gross family tree

An early Christmas package delivered Dec. 2 to the Larry Gross household at 10610 Jackson, Belleville, was their new daughter, Heather Leigh.

Making her debut at 12:19 a.m. at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital in Ann Arbor, the young lady weighed in at 8 lbs., 11 ozs. and measured 21 inches in length.

She is the new addition to the family of Larry and Sallie Gross who also have a 7½-year-old daughter, Michelle Lynn, who is a big help caring for the baby.

Mr. and Mrs. Max Koeppel of Belleville and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Gross of Caseville are the infant's grandparents. Heather also has an 85-year-old great-grandmother, Mrs. Margaret Koeppel of Belleville.

Prior to the newcomer's arrival, there was a stork shower for the mother-to-be several weeks ago. Held at the home of Sallie's mother, Mrs. Fern Koeppel on Bedell Street, the party was co-hosted by her two sisters, Marge Koeppel and Jackie Marsh, both of Belleville. Seven-year-old Michelle, was also on hand to help with the proceedings.

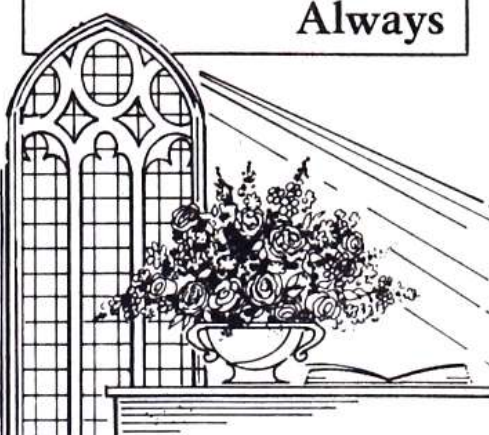

The 20 guests from Clinton, Ann Arbor and Belleville included the honoree's grandmother, Mrs. Margaret Koeppel, who resides at the Van Buren Convalescent Home in Belleville.

Several games were played with Lucille Sheldon and Gerry Hills, both of Belleville, taking home prizes of potted plants.

After Michelle had helped her mother unwrap all the gifts for her expected playmate, the group enjoyed a buffet lunch served amid table appointments in the yellow and green color scheme of the nursery.

'Hometownner' achieves goal--Ph. D. degree

Much has been said about the married woman with children who, somehow, manages to earn degrees in higher education while raising a large family. Rarely is anything written about the head-of-the-family who, between keeping the family solvent, maintaining an active community life and helping rear that houseful of children, also manages to squeeze in enough study time to pursue college courses and eventual degrees. Such is the case of a local man who just recently reached his goal — his doctoral degree in higher education — which he received from the University of Michigan.

Dale Davis, a life long resident of the Belleville area, prefaced his Ph. D. with a diploma from Belleville High School in 1950 and a bachelor of science degree in business administration from Eastern Michigan University, where he majored in accounting and economics, in 1957. He later earned his master's degree in the same field from the University of Michigan where his major areas of study were marketing and international finance. Three years ago he received the award as "Outstanding Educator, College of Business, 1973-74" from Alpha Kappa Psi professional business fraternity. Earlier in his career he served as Academic Budgeting Officer for EMU and prior to that had been Divisional Administrator, financial systems and procedures, at Chevrolet Motor Division. He also had worked as Chevrolet Central Office Auditor and held various supervisory positions in two Chevrolet assembly and one manufacturing plant. A former U.S. Army Signal Corpsman, he now is teaching at the University of Michigan's Dearborn campus. From 1972 until earlier this year, he was an instructor at EMU teaching undergraduate and graduate courses in accounting. He is presently employed as resident corporate auditor for Volkswagen Manufacturing Company of America. Davis and his wife, Alice, reside at 11500 Wilson Ave., Belleville, with four of their six children: Patrick, who is employed at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital in Ann Arbor; Erick, a senior at Belleville High School; Glen, a freshman at North Junior High School, and Peter, who's in the sixth grade at Edgemont Elementary School. The two older Davises are Cheryl, a student at Case Western School of Dentistry in Cleveland, Ohio, and Mark, who lives in Fairbanks, Alaska and attends the University of Alaska. "Extra curricular" activities for the Ph. D. holder have included being a fire commissioner in Ypsilanti Township, a Junior Achievement advisor, United Foundation solicitor in the direct contact program for small businesses in Detroit, a Merit Badge Counselor with the Boy Scouts and voluntary service in parks and recreation programs. He currently is a lector and financial audit representative at St. Anthony's Catholic Church and is an officer of the court in the Michigan 34th District on a volunteer service basis.

DALE DAVIS

Try an original design

Take a page from days of yore and try making some of your own Christmas tree decorations. Even better, get out all the necessary equipment and have the children do the cutting and snipping for these original ornaments. It would be an ideal way to keep them busy on a snowed-in afternoon during their holiday vacation. The designs are among those being used to decorate at Greenfield Village this season. Instructions for Henry Ford Museum paper ornaments: (top row, left to right) 1. Fold a 5 x 11 inch sheet of typing paper into accordion-type folds about 3/4th of an inch wide. 2. Fold the accordion fold in half. 3. Make a diagonal cut across each corner at the folded end of the paper. (Bottom row, left to right) 4. Open the folded panel so it is again five inches by 3/4th of an inch. Tie a string across the narrowest point of the ornament with about 18 inches of thread. This will be used to hang the ornament. 5. Continue to hold the paper in its accordion configuration and begin cutting notches on each side of the paper, making sure that the thread is not cut. 6. Open the ornament up, and tape the inside edges of the ornament together, so the ornament becomes circular.

LosLuminaries now on sale at Canton church

A Christmas season lighting decoration with religious overtones is making its debut in Michigan, more specifically in the Canton Township area.

Members of a group, calling themselves the Divine Saviour Community Parish, are spearheading a tradition called "Los Luminarias", dating back to the 16th century.

According to Mrs. Nancy Dorf, spokesman for the group, luminarias are vigil candles embedded in sand and placed in paper bags. They are strategically placed around sidewalks, driveways, patios and steps to form a runway of lights.

She explained the tradition symbolizes the family's welcome to the Christ child and the holy family on Christmas Eve.

Mrs. Dorf emphasized that too much commercial exploitation occurs during the Christmas season and that this observance of Los Luminarias reinforces the belief that Christ belongs to Christmas for all who believe in Him.

Her parish, which now holds services in Eagle Elementary School in Canton Township, between Haggerty and Hix roads, is hoping to raise funds to build a church across the street from the school.

The parish members are selling kits of luminarias containing seven candles, seven bags and 14 pounds of sand for $2.50. Persons desiring to buy these kits may call her or Mrs. Janet Slade at 455-1684.

For and about seniors

Don't forget that lonely person

'Tis the season to be jolly. Unfortunately, that doesn't hold true in all cases. The arrival of the holiday season can make a lonely person feel more isolated than ever. But this needn't happen.

The first thing to do of course, if you have family, is to plan on spending either Christmas or New Year's with them. If you have married children, break the long tradition of having Christmas dinner at Mom's house. Let your daughter, or daughter-in-law do the honors this year. You might offer to bring one dish you know your family particularly likes; but go, relax and enjoy. When you start to feel tired from the day's activities, how nice it will be to go home to a quiet house, not having to worry about how long the younger generation will continue to celebrate.

If you do not have children, or if your children live at a distance and you can not see your way to visit them, by all means invite someone to your place for dinner. Lonely people often feel they are the only ones suffering from this malady. Not so! Take a look around you. There are many people who would gladly accept an invitation to share a holiday. Sharing will be doubly rewarding, for it will lessen your loneliness while bringing happiness to another.

If you can get out of your house at all, go Christmas shopping. Even if you have no gifts to buy, take an afternoon and enjoy the decorations at your nearest shopping center. For at least a few minutes, watch the faces of the children in line to see Santa. Stand back and watch the harried shoppers. Buy yourself a gift.

If you have someone you would like to surprise for Christmas, but feel you can't afford to, give the best gift of all—something homemade. That neighbor you would like to get to know better? Bake her some bread. The paper boy who always shows up regardless of the weather? How about a batch of cookies? Sixteen years ago my husband painted pictures on, and monogrammed, some Christmas stockings I had made for friends. They still hang those stockings every year. Giving really is as much fun as getting, and the price is not important at all.

Contact an old friend during Christmas week. The longer it has been since you have seen them, the better. The surprise and delight in their voice when you say who is calling will lift your spirits for days, and they may ask you to drop in during the holidays as an added bonus.

Alone or not, start planning some special meals for the week between Christmas and New Year's. If you have to stretch the budget, do it. Plan meals you would not ordinarily serve because of cost. Eat the foods you love (within your dietary limits, of course). If you are on a restricted diet, you'll have to keep that in mind. Love ham, but never buy it because of waste? Find the smallest one you can and have the butcher cut it into three parts. Freeze two parts for another time.

The important thing is to remember that you are very special. Treat yourself that way.

Those of you who are regular readers of my column will remember "Lonesome George Pfeiffer", our September senior of the month. I am saddened to write that Lonesome George is in the Intensive Care Unit of Garden City Hospital, suffering from a fractured skull, the result of a fall in his home on Nov. 28. I am sure all of you will join me and his hundreds of friends in a prayer for a full and speedy recovery.

Christmas season: 'Bake it up special'

The Christmas holiday season seems to bring out the creativity in all of us, as well as an even deeper appreciation of our friends and family ties. Here's an easy and fun way suggested by Whirlpool home economists to involve the entire family in making Christmas tree ornaments, as well as fond memories that you'll all treasure for many Christmas holidays to come.

It's easy and fast, because instead of baking the bread dough shapes for 30 minutes in a conventional oven, a microwave oven bakes these ornaments in only three minutes. Let your imagination soar. You can be as creative as you'd like in making your ornaments. Just use cookie cutters, or make your own designs from cardboard patterns — both work equally well.

Everyone can enjoy cutting out their favorite shapes and then painting them to suit their own creative fancy. Just follow the simple step-by-step instructions, and you'll be on your way to having a beautifully decorated tree that uniquely expresses Christmas for your family.

INGREDIENTS - MATERIALS

2½ cups All-purpose flour
1 cup Salt
1 cup Water
Cookie cutters or cardboard patterns

Glass pizza plate or plastic microwave plate
Needle and a small straw
Water color paints and lacquer
Yarn, ribbon or ornament hangers

In large mixing bowl, combine all ingredients; flour, salt, water. Mix thoroughly with spoon until all the flour is moistened. Turn dough out on lightly floured surface.

Knead dough until smooth, about 10 minutes. Shape into a ball, then return the dough to the bowl. Keep dough covered with a damp cloth or paper towel until ready to use.

Before using, check the consistency of dough. If dough is sticky, add a small amount of flour. If dough is too stiff, knead in additional water by teaspoons.

Divide dough in half. Keep one-half covered in bowl. Roll half on floured surface to ¼ inch thickness. Cut with cookie cutters or cut around your cardboard pattern. Repeat the process with your remaining dough.

Use excess dough to add three-dimensional trim to ornaments. Make sure to moisten trim pieces with water and then press trim, moistened side down, firmly to ornament.

Place ornament on ungreased glass pizza plate. Prick in several places with a needle to allow steam to escape. Use a skewer or small drinking straw to make hole in top of ornament for hangers.

Cook at high in microwave oven for three minutes, giving dish half turn once. Check to see if ornaments are firm and not wet on bottom. Add more cooking time in one-minute segments, if ornaments are not dry enough. Cool on rack.

Paint ornaments with water colors to make desired designs. When paint is thoroughly dry, spray with lacquer or, for an extra shiny appearance, paint with lacquer.

Insert colored yarn, ribbon, or ornament hangers through the hole in the top of the ornaments. You may use the ornaments to decorate trees, wreaths or holiday packages. This recipe makes about three dozen ornaments.

MEXICALLI ROLL
2 pounds ground beef
2 eggs
1 can (10½ oz.) tomato puree
1½ cups cornflakes, crushed
1 tablespoon chili powder
1 teaspoon seasoned salt
¼ teaspoon leaf thyme
¼ teaspoon garlic salt
¼ teaspoon seasoned pepper
½ cup finely shredded carrot
1 can (4 oz.) mushroom stems and pieces, drained and chopped
2 tablespoons sesame seeds
15 thin slices large pepperoni sausage
3 slices (6 oz.) Mozzarella cheese, cut in half
6 stuffed olives, sliced

Combine ground beef, eggs, ¼ cup tomato puree, cornflakes, chili powder, seasoned salt, thyme, garlic salt and seasoned pepper. Mix lightly. Add shredded carrot and chopped mushrooms and mix. Arrange two 22-inch long sheets of waxed paper overlapping to about 18 inches in width. Arrange sesame seeds in center of waxed paper to form a 10 x 10-inch square. Place beef mixture over sesame seeds and pat to form a rectangle 16 by 13 inches. Arrange pepperoni, crosswise on beef, in three rows allowing five slices to a row. Arrange two rows of cheese with three half slices each between the rows of pepperoni. Top with remaining tomato puree (approximately ½ cup). Starting at the narrow end roll meat, jelly roll fashion, pressing ends to seal tightly.

Place meat roll seam side down in ungreased 13-by9-by2-inch shallow baking dish. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for one hour 10 minutes. Top with sliced olives. Let stand for 15 minutes. Serve with Jolly Caper Sauce. 6 to 8 servings.

JOLLY CAPER SAUCE

1 cup mayonnaise
one-third cup chopped stuffed green olives
¼ cup cranberry juice
1 teaspoon horseradish
2 tablespoons drained capers
Combine in order given. Pour into gravy boat. Serve with Mexicali Roll. Sauce is not cooked. Sauce may be heated, but not necessary.

County submits recreation report to DNR

After six months studying the blighted but "vast recreation potential" of the Detroit River shoreline, Wayne County planning officials have submitted a report and recommendations for improvement to the State Department of Natural Resources (DNR) in Lansing.

The report, titled "People and the River," concludes the effort requested by DNR in February to help guide its expenditure of recreation dollars.

Said County Board Chairman John Barr: "The DNR asked us for the study, we have responded and are saying that this is what they would be focusing on in their allocation of money."

Barr added that recommendations in the report could produce sensational changes to beautify and utilize the 37 miles of river shoreline in the County that he called neglected and undeveloped for recreational use.

Among the proposals offered in the study is the formation of an inter-agency council to coordinate recreational planning along the entire 37 miles, more means of public access to the river, improved and increased number of parks that would include a major development by the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority, continued upgrading of water quality, and development of special projects at Belle Isle and Fort Wayne.

Also recommended is the establishment of an educational observation center at the Rouge River intersection. It would be designed to educate the public on new techniques in pollution control, provide an understanding of Detroit industry, and allow observation of Great Lakes shipping.

The study was carried out by an eight-member Recreation Opportunities Panel selected from resource specialists in both public and private areas. With DNR agreement, the panel was appointed by the county Planning Commission.

In addition, the panel is supported with expertise from eight others in various agencies active in riverfront recreation services, such as the City of Detroit Recreation Department, the Huron Clinton Metropolitan Authority, DNR, the Army Engineer Corps and county Road Commission.

Results of the panel study was presented to the DNR Shorelines Advisory Council, the Recreation Advisory Council and other chief personnel. Present at the meeting was DNR Deputy Director O. J. Scherschligt.

The presentation was made by selected members of the Recreation Opportunities Panel, headed by Maurice W. Roach, Director of the Planning Commission staff.

The study points out that, except where obvious need for international coordination exists, it was limited to the US riverside. It also explains that on-site observations of riverfront use excluded Belle Isle and the Grosse Pointes because the "Pointes" restrict public access to the river and Belle Isle has previously been extensively studied by the Huron-Clinton authority.

Nevertheless, a strong recommendation in the report is continued DNR support in funding Belle Isle projects along with the City of Detroit, as well as arrangement for public boating access at Fort Wayne — possibly as an alternative use for the present Army Corps of Engineers' dock.

Recognizing the absence of overall long-range coordination for the county waterway-shoreline the report says, the first conclusion is a need for inter-agency planning.

The second recommendation asks for DNR leadership in this role, acting with advice and consent of local agencies that would also include Canadian representation.

The report emphasizes that improved water quality and more public access are paramount in considering recreational development. Swimming and fishing activities are vital.

It also recommends that the Huron-Clinton authority develop a third major riverfront park, in addition to the linked river parks proposed by the City of Detroit and the Lake Erie Metropark already underway.

YWCA sponsors Job Finders Day

Although January might seem far off, it is really just around the corner. So is your opportunity to start the year off on a positive note by obtaining vital information on how to get a job in the immediate future.

The Western Wayne County YWCA will be sponsoring a Job Finders Day Jan. 17. The program, which will be held at the YWCA, 26279 Michigan Avenue, Inkster, will focus on the woman who has an immediate need for a job, yet is limited by lack of skills or direction in which to turn. There will be no frills, no fancy lunches — just basic, valuable, concise information on how to obtain a job. A bag lunch may be brought.

Participants in a panel discussion will give information related to identifying community resources in assisting in the job search. Phyllis Robinson, career education consultant for the Wayne County Intermediate School District, will moderate the panel. Panel members will include Kenneth Schultz, related instruction coordinator, Schoolcraft Community College, "Apprenticeships and Women"; Ingrid Kroeger, office of vocational rehabilitation; Camille Geratowski and Maureen Sarkees, manpower — vocational education, "Information Regarding Skill Training and Employment Skills"; Monica Emerson, Chrysler Learning Center, manpower, opportunities assistance in "Job Search, Job Retention and Skill Training in Non-Traditional Jobs"; and Charmaine Harris, MESC branch manager, "Telling the Michigan Job Service Story".

Cubs of Pack 739 gather for 1st meet

Youngsters who participated in summer projects were awarded special patches at the first meeting of Cub Scout Pack 739 of Merriman Elementary School.

The Scouts received their patches from Cubmaster Paul Michael for work on Project Soar, Scout-O-Rama and a five-mile hike at Silver Lake.

The new leaders also were recognized at the meeting and included Nina Caba, Den 1 mother; Judy Cianfarani, her assistant; Mimi Buksar, Den 2 mother; Sharon Michael, her assistant; Carol Bales, Den 4 mother.

On other den mother, Sandy Langley and her assistant, Barb Schuster, both of Den 3, are not new, but were recognized at the meeting. Ms. Langley formed the famous Lansing committee and opened up closed doors to let the parents of Romulus know about those things with the school district they may not have been aware of.

Ms. Schuster also was a big help to the pack, as well as in many activities at Merriman School. She is the pack's den leader coach. Her assistant in that job is Alice Stratton.

Cubmaster Michael is pulling double duty, serving as head of that pack and Webelos leader until one can be found. Those persons interested in helping with the Scouting organization can contact the school or the cubmaster.

Awards also were presented at the meeting. In Den 2, Darren Wayne Michael earned his Bear book, one-year pin, dinner cord and three silver arrows. D.J. Buksar garnered one gold arrow and his one-year pin, and Richard A. warden, his one-year pin. Anthony Tomei received his assistant dinner cord, Wolf book and Bobcat patch.

In Den 3 Steve Langley recieved his Bear book, one-year pin and recruiter patch; Eric Scanlon, his Bear book and one-year pin; Frank Gondek, his two-year pin and advanced to the Webelos; Charlie Sengal, one-year pin, and enner cord; Rahul Sengal, one-year pin and advanced to the Webelos; Joey Schuster, one-year pin and two silver arrows; and John Schuster, assistant dinner cord.

New boys joining the pack were Jimmy Cianfarani, Steven B. Ray, Thomas Redman and Mark Stoyhoff in Den 1, Anthony Tomei, James Ogden, Brian Ray Bales and Richard Zustraten in Den 2; Bobby Langley and Gary Harrison in Den 3.

There was special ceremony for those young Scouts that advanced to the Webelos rank. The meeting included a series of candlelight ceremonies for the new Scouts and their parents.

The meeting ended with a raffle or five cakes, baked by the den mothers and their assistants. They money raised in the raffle will be used for the pack programs.

The pack will be holding a special Christmas meeting this week, and Cubmaster Michael told those gathered that there may be a "special guest".

Recapture state's past in some 189 museums

The holidays will soon be fond memories that hopefully will carry us through the cold, blustery winter months of January and February. But if you'd rather explore than remember the past there's plenty for you to do at a museum.

Relive Michigan's past with a visit to a museum — be it an old Army fort, restored 19th century village, a one-room schoolhouse or stately Victorian mansion filled with momentos of the state's mining, lumbering and Great Lakes shipping era, advises the Automobile Club of Michigan.

The Auto Club, in cooperation with the Michigan Museums Association, Michigan Council for the Arts and National Endowment for the Arts, has compiled a guide to the state's museums.

The institutions listed range from one-room collections of township archival material to the Detroit Institute of Arts' 101 galleries and its some 25,000 pieces of art, including masterpieces by Cezanne, Van Gogh, Matisse and Picasso.

Several nature centers are listed, along with the Detroit Zoological Park's collection of exotic and native mammals, birds, reptiles, amphibians and fishes & considered among the world's finest.

The guide also lists museums connected with the state's colleges and universities, historic forts dating back to the 1700s, farm museums and world famous Greenfield Village and Henry Ford Museum, the indoor-outdoor complex in Dearborn portraying more than 300 years of American history.

To be included in the Auto Club's museum guide, an institution had to meet the Michigan Museums Association definition of a "permanent, non-profit institution primarily educational and aesthetic in purpose whose professional goal is to collect or borrow, organize, preserve, study or interpret, animate or inanimate objects of lasting value, the public on a regular basis."

MLCC voices opposition to liquor price increase

The Michigan Liquor Control Commission has gone on record in strong opposition to a bill that would raise the price of liquor to consumers by nearly $17 million annually, with more than 91 percent of the increase going to liquor distributors.

"This proposal is a consumer rip-off," said Chairman Stanley G. Thayer, speaking for the commission. "There has been no apparent hardship to package dealers or on-premise licensees which would warrant legislative action to increase their profitability. There are approximately 1,000 applications pending for new package liquor licenses.

"The proposed increase could make Michigan prices higher than neighboring states.

"Specially Designated Dealer (SDD or package liquor) licenses were designed and intended to be an adjunct to established merchants and to make liquor readily available to consumers," Thayer said. "The sale of alcoholic liquor in Michigan was never intended to be the licensee's sole profit-making commodity."

Under the Michigan liquor law, which is unique among the states, the price paid by consumers is determined by a percentage markup over cost which the LCC charges. This percentage determines the price of a bottle of liquor whether it is sold by a state-operated store or by a licensed SDD.

Profit to the dealer comes from a separate percentage discount which the commission applies to its sales to the licensee.

The bill in question (H.B. 4448) has been sent to the House Appropriations Committee. In its original form, it would have raised the discount allowed licensees from the current 15 percent to 22 percent.

However, proposed amendments to the bill would do two things — first, they would make the discount to dealers 18 percent, and second, they would raise the markup charged by the commission from 48 percent over cost to 54 percent over cost.

"With the proposed minimum markup at 54 percent instead of 48 percent, the state would be increasing the price to the public for the same consumption by about 4 percent of sales — an estimated $16,801,620," Thayer pointed out. "Of this increase, which only the state can authorize, the state would receive $1,469,490 while the distributors would receive $15,332,130.

"If this proposal is enacted, it would mean that for the first time the share of the sales dollar going as discount exceeds the gross profit to the state."

"In other words, the state would become the junior partner," Thayer said.

"Michigan is unique among the control states in that it is the only state which shares its income from liquor with independent distributors in the form of discounts," he said. "By having a percentage rather than a dollar markup, there already is a built-in hedge against inflation which protects the licensee."

"This means that any argument for this proposal which says the dealers need the increase to meet costs is pure poppycock."

"On-premise licensees — that is, bars — are over-discounted at the present time. The price they pay for liquor is regulated, but they can charge anything they want for a drink, and have complete control of their own pricing structure."

"Whatever the price increase, they find it easy to simply add a nickel to the price of every drink," Thayer said.

He noted that distillers' prices when they sell their products to the state are likely to continue going up. Compounding the expected increases by boosting profits is unconscionable, he said.

"This bill could increase the cost of purchasing a licensed business, and these purchase costs are already high due partially to the fact that the number of licenses which can be issued under LCC regulations is restricted," Thayer said. "The only apparent motivation for this proposal seems to be greed."

"It is bad for the consumer because it would unnecessarily increase his cost; it is bad for the dealers because it could cut their sales and increase the cost of transferring a licensed business, and it is bad for the state because it goes against the whole rationale for the close control of liquor distribution."

Give pet as Yule gift, be sure it's wanted

Christmas! There are few words that conjure up more excitement — among adults as well as children! If a new pet is at the top of your Christmas list, or you're thinking of giving one to someone else, there are a few things you should consider now.

First, are you sure the recipient of your living, loving gift wants a pet? Ask. It's not fair to give your Aunt Lucy a kitten when she really wanted a red sweater — it's not fair to Aunt Lucy and not fair to the kitten. Be especially careful when giving a pet to a child. Always check with parents before you put a puppy or kitten in any child's Christmas stocking. A Christmas pet makes a wonderful gift, but just be sure the person you're giving him to really wants him!

If you're sure a pet is the right gift, or that you really want one yourself this Christmas, what kind of pet is the next question.

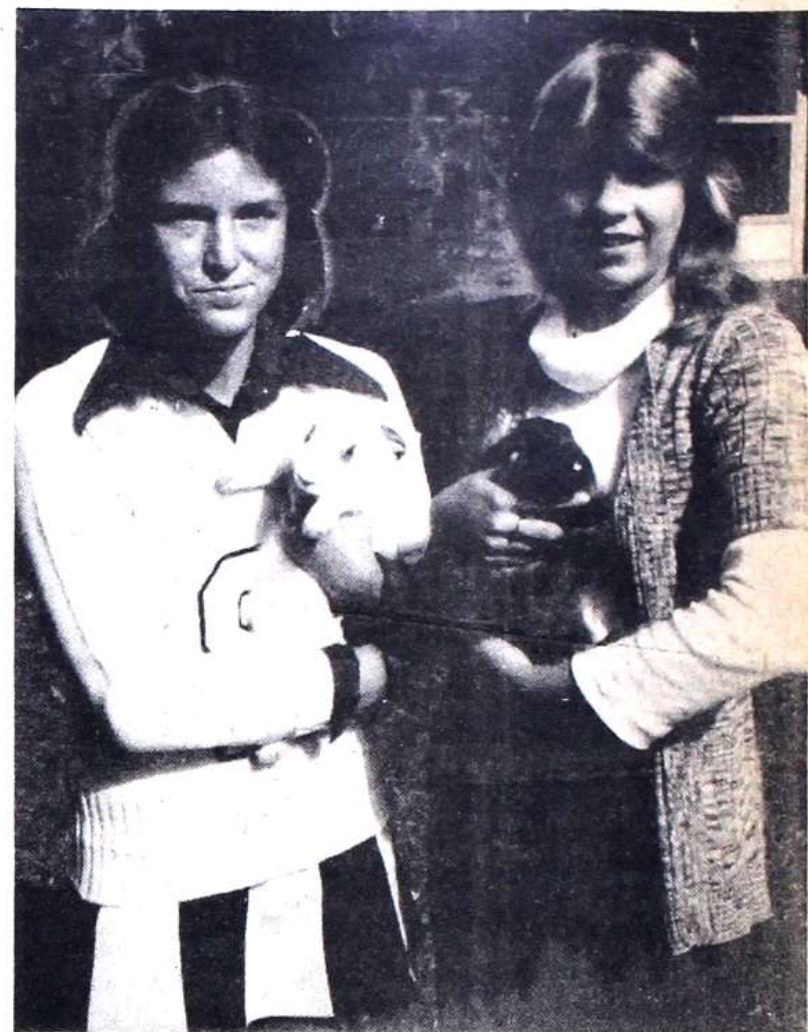

The choice of a pet should suit the lifestyle of the recipient and vice versa. A hamster or tropical fish may bring far greater joy in the long run, than a puppy or kitten.

If a puppy or kitten is the choice for a "Living" Christmas present, it is far better to introduce the pet either before or after the excitement of Christmas morning. The confusion surrounding the opening of presents will only contribute to the animal's sense of insecurity in his new surroundings.

The Michigan Humane Society will offer "gift certificates" to allow recipients of new pets from its shelters to come in after the Christmas spirit has somewhat subsided and pick the pet of their choice.

Lastly, keep in mind that the Christmas pet is a year round joy and responsibility. Long after the tree is down and the other gifts are broken or forgotten, your Christmas pet will be there — giving an, we hope, receiving the greatest gift of all, love.

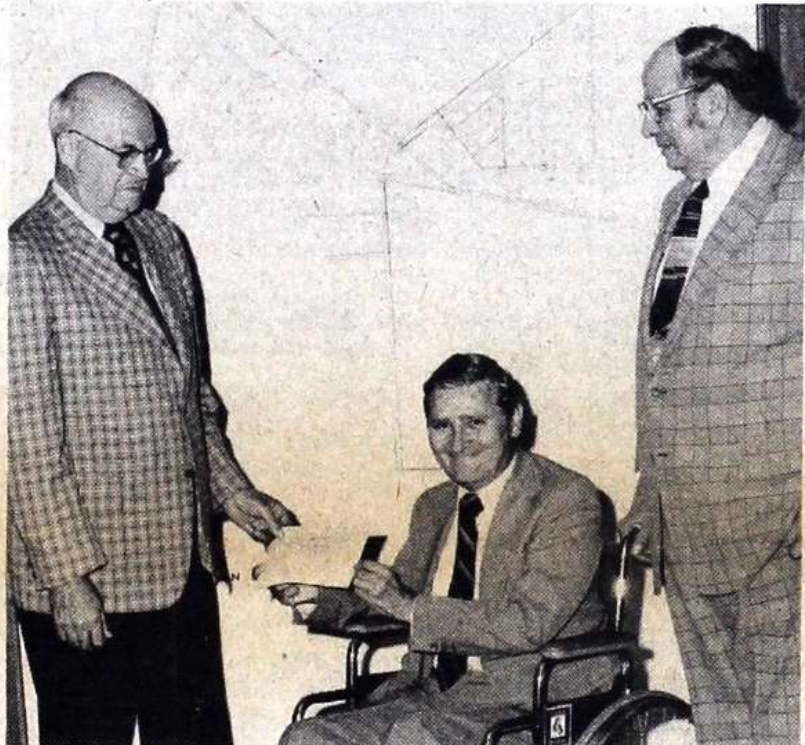

Cute and Cuddly

Holding their furry little pets are Colette Cloyd and Kris Buchanan who eagerly took part in the recent "Pet Booklet" project in William Lloyd's biology class at Belleville South Junior High School. The ninth grade girls said it was a real pleasurable experience to learn, then write about their pets. They said even the animals had a real good time.

Windfall

Senate Majority Leader William Faust (D-Westland) was in Belleville last week to deliver a check worth almost $10,000 to Mayor Justin Emerson. The money originally was spent by Belleville to oppose a bond issue which would have pledged the full faith and credit of Wayne County in order to build a stadium in Detroit a few years ago. Faust said recent enactment of a Supplemental Appropriations Bill (SB 29) permitted Belleville to recover the money. Faust (center) is shown handing the draft to Emerson (left) while Wayne County Commissioner — and former Belleville mayor — Royce Smith looks on.

Ms. Priest is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Priest of Wilson Avenue.

Ruth Ann Ballard, a student of Blaine Ballard of Belleville, was a semi-finalist in the advanced division of the National Association of Teachers of Singing Great Lakes Regional Adjudication, held at Ball State University in Muncie, Ind., Nov. 11-12.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED: By the City Council of the City of Romulus pursuant to the authority vested therein by Public Act 198 of 1974, as amended does herewith grant approval for Industrial Facilities Exemption Certificates to Seibert Oxidermo, as requested in its application filed with the City of Romulus on September 14, 1977.

Housing bill disrupts budget

Wayne County, already struggling to maintain a balanced budget after eliminating a $13 million deficit, faces a $3.5 million prisoner housing bill because of an unexpected increase in prisoners, two county commissioners warned this week.

Wayne County Commissioners Rose Mary C. Robinson and Richard E. Manning said the solution to the problem "should come from county judges, the sheriff and the prosecutor because it is a criminal justice problem — and they have been elected and have the expertise to handle this area better than anyone else."

Robinson and Manning declared that "a critical budget situation has developed at the county's jail annex in Westland where the prisoner population is nearly at the maximum."

"On advice from the criminal justice system, we budgeted for a maximum of 70 prisoners at the annex," Robinson said. "But we've been housing more than 200 out there at $70 per day. If this keeps up, it will run the county an unexpected $3.5 million."

Manning added: "We're going to have to find a solution to the prisoner problem by Jan. 9 when the budgeted money runs out, or make some cuts in the existing criminal justice budget."

The commissioners said they saw only two options to the problem: Move prisoners out of the jail faster or makes cuts in the court and law enforcement budgets, which now run some $100 million a year.

"We're asking the judges, the sheriff and the prosecutor to attend a meeting this Wednesday to discuss the problem," Robinson said. "Hopefully, they will come up with better ways of handling persons awaiting trial."

Robinson, an attorney, suggested they might consider reviewing bonding procedures or the practice of sending female misdemeanants to the county jail rather than a community-based operation like a halfway house.

She said most female misdemeanants are convicted of prostitution, loitering and other similar offenses and could be handled in a different manner.

She said to house them at the county jail costs $70 per day as opposed to a $4-$25 charge for other facilities.

Manning, also an attorney, recommended that law enforcement officials and judges look into the possibility of holding prisoners in local police lockups.

"If we could just find an alternate place for 100 people, it would save the county $7,000 per day," Manning added.

Robinson, as chairman of the Board of Commissioners Public Safety and Judiciary Committee, scheduled a meeting of her committee at 1 p.m. today and invited all Circuit and Recorder's Court judges, Sheriff William Lucas and Prosecutor William Cahalan to attend.

Robinson said that if a solution can't be found quickly, and if the judges and others don't tell her committee where the cuts should be made, the commissioners will make them.

"But I'd rather have their advice and cooperation," she emphasized.

For homeowners

Here's ten quick energy saving tips

Here's 10 quick tip energy savers for winter-wary Belleville-Romulus homeowners:

(1) Double-check that thermostat! If it's over 10 years old, it's probably not functioning accurately and could be wasting heat. Have it checked out. Thermostat cover should be removed yearly to blow out dirt and lint.

(2) Don't squander heat on your wardrobe. Keep closet doors closed at all times. You'll save energy and, incidentally, keep closet contents free of household dust.

(3) The US Department of Commerce estimates that drafts from windows and doors raise heating bills as much as 15 to 30 percent. Cut heat loss by weather stripping between door or window and its frame, and by caulking cracks between frame and supporting wall. Small caulking jobs are quickly done with a product like Elmer's All-Purpose Caulk in a convenient squeeze tube. For larger jobs, choose the thrifty caulking gun cartridge.

(4) Don't block heating outlets and registers with furniture or other large objects. You'll find your heating equipment works better and your furniture lasts longer.

(5) The major source of heat loss in a typical one-family dwelling, according to the American Society of Heating, Refrigeration, and Air-Conditioning, are the sidewalls — as much as 37 percent of the total. An injectable foam insulation, which flows up and down to fill every available space in the wall cavities before hardening, gives a home owner maximum coverage by leaving no "un-insulated gaps."

(6) Want more heat? Place a sheet of aluminum foil between your radiators and wall. It will reflect heat back into the room. Decorative radiator covers do the opposite — they trap heat in.

(7) If you're planning to re-insulate your home, be sure to check the so-called R-value of the material which represents the commonly-accepted measure of insulating ability — the higher, the better. Foam insulation, such as Borden's Insulpray which is recommended for exterior sidewalls, has the highest certified R-value of any of the leading insulators — 4.3 per inch at 32 degrees or almost twice that of fiberglass.

(8) Stone, stucco, and brick exterior walls in older homes often develop energy-wasting cracks — especially at points where two different materials or parts of a house come together. Fill them with a good masonry sealer, easy to apply with a caulking gun.

(9) Double your storm windows' effectiveness by taping plastic sheeting over them during extremely cold days.

(10) Insulate your hot water heater, air ducts, and all bare hot water pipes — especially those that run through cold areas like a garage or basement.

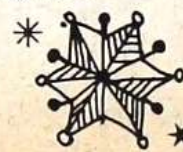

Bird count planned

A Christmas Bird Count will be held at the Nature Center of Oakwoods Metropark near Flat Rock on Monday, Dec. 26 at dawn.

Bird enthusiasts are invited to join park naturalists and members of the Lower Rouge Nature Club for a day-long inventory of birds in an assigned area. A final tally of the day's observations will take place at the Nature Center following a meal of hearty chili and hot coffee.

Participants may spend as little or as much time on the count as they wish.

Contact Naturalist Bob Wittersheim at the Nature Center of Oakwoods Metropark at 782-1255 (Flat Rock) for an assignment.

But Belleville swims to relays' title

Snow batters sports schedule

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Sports Editor

The arctic temperatures and second's second snow storm that battered Michigan late last week left in its wake an additional seven inches of snow and a bundle of headaches for the already tiring athletic directors who are faced with rescheduling problems.

Most of the high school games in the area, wrestling meets and swimming competition were postponed because of the snow and below zero temperatures.

Athletic directors concurred that if the event was a league meet or game it would be rescheduled, however most out of the conference competition would be rescheduled only if there were open dates.

New Boston was hit hardest by the storm. Hank Smith, Huron High's AD, said that the school's wrestling invitational, the conference cage game with Monroe Catholic Central and a dual mat meet were wiped out by the storm.

"We haven't rescheduled our wrestling invitational because presently we don't know what date the competing schools have open."

Wayne Memorial's scheduled game with Great Lakes 8 Conference defending champ, Taylor Center, will be played on Jan. 31, according to Bill Hawley, the school's AD. The swim meet with Taylor has not, as yet, been rescheduled.

Most of the other cage games will be played in late January.

One annual event that didn't get wiped out by the storm was Belleville's Swim Relays. Coach Sam Vicchy's Tigers hosted the invitational and managed to successfully defend its title.

Belleville compiled 40 points and captured five out of the eight first places. Detroit Catholic Central finished second with 26 points and the Detroiters were followed by Fordson (23), Wayne Memorial (20) and Wyandotte (17).

Vicchy was pleased with the overall performance of his swimmers, "especially the younger crew which is coming along just fine."

"When you take five of the eight events," Vicchy pointed out, "you can't be displeased. However, there is a lot of room for improvement as any coach knows."

Wayne's Jim McPartlin, whose Zebras were shut out from first, said his team swam well.

"We received some good times from our younger kids," McPartlin said. "Over-all I felt we swam well."

Snowed out against Farmington last Thursday, Wayne hopes to return to the nonleague waters on Thursday against Ypsilanti. The Zebras will travel to Ypsi for the 7 p.m. meet.

Olympics in her future?

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Sports Editor

What young girl or boy hasn't dreamed about competing in the Olympics?

For the majority, the dream remains just that — a dream.

But for 13-year-old Mindy McKelvey, work is what makes dreams a reality. Mindy recently won her first gold medal in figure skating and that, she feels, is the first in many steps which will eventually lead to an Olympic tryout some day.

"Mindy has been taking private lessons for 13 months," says the girl's mother, Delores J. Bradley. "It's strange I have two girls — one, who won't get off the ice and a second who won't get on it and prefers playing the piano."

It seems that the recent Great Lakes Regional Figure Skating competitions held in Wayne has been a catalyst for the sport.

The thousands who viewed the championships held in the Wayne Community Center saw some of the best performers in the nation compete for a chance to qualify for the midwestern invitational.

That will be the road Mindy will have to someday skate down if she is to make it to the Olympics. It is a road with many pitfalls, demanding a lot of time, energy and discipline.

Mindy started her skating career as a protegee of Coach Carol Zoziedbko of Melvindale. She has recently turned to Debbie Stoltzman of Melvindale to further her career.

"I'm on the ice for about six hours or more per day, five days a week," said the Calvary Lutheran Church seventh grader. "It really doesn't give me enough time for socializing, but I love to skate and that's why I'm there on the ice."

Mindy, who has been going through this rigid routine for nearly 2½ years, picked up her first gold medal on Dec. 11 at the Ice Skating Institute of America tournament, also held at the Wayne Ice Arena.

She was entered the Freestyle IV, age group 12 to 14 category. One of her regrets was that she wasn't able to see the regional championships last week because she was out of town.

"I feel the most important thing about skating is that you must have poise — and you can't lose it," Mindy says. "Whatever happens on the ice, you must have poise — that's what makes a champion."

Remember the name — Mindy McKelvey — I have a feeling you're going to hear a lot about her in the future.

While we're on ice, hopefully not thin, let's read some of our mail. TO THE ASSOCIATED NEWSPAPERS;

Thank you for your excellent coverage of the 1978 Eastern Great Lakes Figure Skating Championships which were conducted at the Community Center this past week-end.

As you may have noticed, the front page of the News on Saturday ran a short article with a photo.

It is our understanding that an official of the United State Figure Skating Association was flown in on Saturday, and we now learn that the Community Center will be under consideration for the Midwestern Figure Skating Championships in 1979.

The Midwestern is a sectional championship which immediately precedes the National Championship for the United States Figure Skaters who are competing for the Olympics in Lake Placid in 1980.

Sincerely,
Patrick J. Cullen,
City Manager, Wayne

Dear Mr. Mooradian,

Congratulations on your All-Area football players and teams! Last week's edition was a beautiful one and my son has cut out the clipping and placed your story in his scrapbook.

However, there is a problem — he was told to appear in your office — he did — so that his photo would be taken to accompany the story. For some reason his picture and, apparently some others, didn't make it in last week's paper.

Can we have an explanation, and is there any way that error can be rectified?

Thank you again for your beautiful stories. We feel you are a credit to our community.

Sincerely,
Mrs. M.

Dear Mrs. M.

We're sorry about the foul up in our photography department. As you probably know our veteran photographer was seriously injured

Wayne titles go to Vikings

It took four years but Hazel Park has finally won a Wayne Wrestling Quad.

The invading Vikings moreover did it in double fashion: they took home the first place trophies for the varsity as well as reserve competition.

Wayne Coach John Wood didn't belittle the importance of the match up. He pointed out "that it showed us where we need to work."

"However, we sure didn't get any help from anyone else," Wood added, alluding to the fact that neither of the two other teams at the Quad — Dearborn Heights Annapolis and Farmington — managed to take any points away from the Vikings.

Hazel Park garnered 181 points to outdistance Wayne, which had won the first three Quads, by 20 points. Wayne had 16½, Dearborn Heights Annapolis finished third with 107 and Farmington followed with 95.

An elated Bob Morrill said he was happy that his team finally ended Wayne's domination of the tournament.

"We finally did it," Morrill, the Vikings' mat mentor said. "Our kids wrestled well today."

Wayne had the edge in first places. It emerged as best in six weight classes with Bo Wanshon (119), Corry Bachus (138), Dave Lusk (155), Jeff Bova (165), Mitch Dart (178) and Chris Levenenz (191) each winning gold medals.

Wayne's Chris Bachus reached the finals at 145 but lost to Hazel Park's Carey VanderHagen 10-5.

Hazel Park finished with five first places as Rich McIntosh (98), Tom David (105), John Craig (112), Tom McIntosh (126) and VanderHagen (145) came off the mats as winners for the Vikings.

Annapolis' Gary McDermott won a 10-2 decision over Hazel Park's Joe Craig 10-2 and Farmington heavyweight Scott Hazen pinned HP's Phil Hunter in 2:44 for the other two gold medals.

Earlier in the week Wayne Memorial and natural rival, Westland John Glenn clashed head-on in their first dual confrontation of the season and it went right down to the heavyweight bout where the victory went to Wayne by the narrowest of margins 33-32.

Wayne's Levenenz needed to defeat Glenn's heavyweight representative, in this case Jerome Robinson by either a superior decision or by a fall in order to salvage the victory.

Levenenz couldn't afford to win by a three-point or a major (4-point)

Churchill bows, 72-64

Duel beneath the boards

Livonia Churchill's Ralph Jarnot (50) battles this Dearborn cager for a rebounder in the season opener for both schools. The Chargers presented rookie coach Fred Price with a cliffhanging 51-50 victory, but Friday night the Livonians lost the momentum and their initial Western Six decision at Northville 72-64.

Coach Fred Price will probably think twice when given the opportunity to postpone a basketball game because of a snow storm.

Price and his Chargers were among the exceptions who decided to play Friday night instead of rescheduling their Western Six Conference game with Northville.

Consequently, Churchill made the trip and returned home with their first conference setback of the season, 72-64.

"We just went cold in the middle periods," Price said. "I felt we had some bright spots but not enough to overcome the bad."

Churchill committed 31 costly turnovers which paved the way for Northville to overcome a 23-17 deficit and take the lead 35-29 at half.

Ray Pogor got the Chargers off to a good start as he sank eight of his team high 18 points in the first period. But the Livonians put a mere six points on the boards in the next eight minutes while Northville's Doug Harding kept pumping in baskets as if they were going out of style. He canned 10 points in that second period Northville uprising.

Churchill couldn't shake their scoring blues after the half, either, as Northville increased their lead by five points to take a 51-40 lead into the last period.

Though Pogor again rallied the Chargers, drilling in eight more points during a last ditch spree, Churchill wasn't able to overcome the deficit.

Pogor, who hit on six of 11 at the free throw line and six from the field, paved his teammates with 18 points. Craig Hanton and Ralph Arnot also were in double figures with 15 and 10 points, respectively.

Harding was the key to the Colts' victory as he picked off 22 rebounds and scored a game high 24 points.

With Churchill, Northville and Walled Lake Western each with one loss apiece in the league, the eyes will turn to pre-season title favorite, Plymouth Canton.

Auto accident can't stop Glenn swim coach

Rockets begin season with victory at triangular meet

Frank Higgins will probably never forget 1977. For two good reasons. In 1977, the former All-Area football player from Westland John Glenn received his inaugural opportunity to coach a high school swimming team.

In 1977, Higgins also nearly lost his life. Returning home from Lapeer Higgins and a buddy were involved in a serious auto accident which left the former Glenn swimmer and griddler with facial and eye injuries.

"In fact, I thought I would be blind. I hit the windshield and some of the glass went into my eyes," Higgins related. "Thank God the doctors managed to save my eyes."

Higgins related that his friend,

Paul Sarrico, who was driving the vehicle, was unconscious when Frank came out of the daze. He immediately gave Sarrico mouth-to-mouth resuscitation and he responded.

"I'll never forget it," Higgins said. The 23-year-old Higgins, who successfully coached Stevenson Junior High to three city titles, replaced Al Wachtel as Glenn's head coach. Wachtel moved on to Wyoming last summer.

"We don't have very much depth on this year's team but we do have some hardworking and devoted swimmers," Higgins said, "and we hope to be in contention for the Northwest Suburban Conference championship.

Higgins launched his prep varsity coaching career in a triangular meet which the Westlanders won. Glenn piled up 101 points as compared to Clarenceville's 91 and Crestwood's 88. Glenn had four first places, including the 400-yard freestyle relay. The Rockets also received a double win from Bob Rankin who was clocked in 23.9 for the 50-year freestyle and 52.7 for the 100-yard freestyle.

Glenn resumes cage action

Rockets host Thurston on Friday

After getting a weekend off, Westland John Glenn resumes its bid for the Northwest Suburban Conference basketball title Friday night at home to Redford Thurston.

Thurston is coming off of a loss to Livonia Franklin, which has rushed into the conference lead.

"Thurston always can be counted on to give its rivals a good battle in basketball," said Glenn coach Gordie Davis. "Redford Union just barely got by them and Franklin had its problems with them."

"I expect a very good game," Davis added.

Glenn coasted past a Taylor Center quintet last week for its second nonleague victory in four starts. The Rockets took command at the start and build up an 18-6 first period lead and were out in front by half 31-14.

From thereon there was no doubt about the outcome of the game as Davis liberally used his bench strength.

"Taylor has a junior squad and only one senior, so they're really rebuilding over there," Davis offered.

Many of Taylor's veteran crew, who won the Great Lakes 8 Conference championship a year ago, left the school district last summer when the voters failed to pass a millage levy and the school board wiped out athletics to meet the economics of the school district.

Glenn had 13 players in the scoring column, three of whom reached two figures. Tom Jurewicz, a 6-5 center, scored 10 pointys and also nailed down 11 rebounds while teammates Doug Martin and Daran Armstrong also pumped in 10 points apiece.

Glenn outscored the Rams from the field 28-14 and canned 13 of 26 free throws as compared to Taylor's 12 of 23 performance at the line.

Floor general Pat McBride also turned in a steady game for the Rockets, contributing eight points and a score of assists.

decision and he came up with the five points, a 21-5 superior decision which put Wayne on top.

It was an uphill climb for Wayne all the way. Glenn leaped out in front 18-0 after the first three weights as Paul Demers (98), Tim O'Neil (105) and Terry O'Neill (112) each pinned their opponents.

Frank Turgeon got Wayne on the scoreboard with a 6-3 decision over 119-pounder, Steve Sierakowski and from there on it was a nip-and-tuck affair until Leverenz pulled it out for Wayne.

Cicotte on the jumper

Eastern Michigan center Al Cicotte (51) fires a jump shot over the head of Michigan's Marty Bodner (24) in a game this season. Cicotte, a former Belleville High School standout, is averaging 9.8 points and 7.6 rebounds a game this season for the Hurons.

Belleville's Cicotte starts for EMU '5'

YPSILANTI—Former Belleville High School standout Al Cicotte is the starting center on the 1977-78 Eastern Michigan University basketball team.

Cicotte, a 6-7, 215 pounder, is a senior at EMU after transferring from Central Michigan last year. In five games this season Cicotte is averaging 9.8 points and 7.6 rebounds.

His best performance came in a 66-63 loss to Louisiana Tech when he scored 12 points and grabbed eight rebounds. He had another fine outing against the University of Michigan when he tallied 15 points and had seven rebounds in a losing cause.

In five games he has scored in double figures three times.

Eastern, now 2-3 on the season, will be idle until Dec. 17 when Indiana State will play the Hurons at 3:00 p.m. in Bowen Field House.

3 area prep wrestling teams ranked in state

Three area high school wrestling teams were selected among the top 10 in the latest Class A rankings put out by the Michigan High School Wrestling Coaches' Association.

Unbeaten Belleville holds down the No.3 slot, trailing only top-ranked Flint Northwestern and second-ranked Lansing Eastern.

Wayne Memorial, which lost at its own quadrangular meet over the weekend to Hazel Park, is seated in fifth, one-notch below Hazel Park.

Westland John Glenn occupies the No.7 position while Monroe, a team Wayne Memorial must beat for the Great Lakes 8 Conference championships, was allotted the No.sixth position.

Ypsilanti is ninth, followed by Bedford Temperance, the defending Class A state champs.

Holding down 10th through 15th are Bay City Central, Detroit Catholic Central, Trenton, Battle Creek Lakeview, Lansing Sexton and Muskegon Mona Shores.

Snow storm cancels Salem, Belleville mat showdown

The showdown between Belleville, the defending champ, and challenger, Plymouth Salem, took an unexpected turn last week.

Mother Nature stepped in and separated the two Suburban 8 Conference wrestling rivals with the season's second snow storm and the two will have to meet at a future date.

The match-up was postponed by Thursday and will be rescheduled. "We were ready," said Belleville Coach Gerald Malecek. "All of our kids were down to weight and we were eager."

Coach Malecek pointed out that he didn't know when the two teams would meet, "that the athletic directors would reschedule the meet."

Meanwhile, Belleville remained undefeated in dual meet competition as the Tigers crushed Adrian 45-12 in an out of conference showing.

"We looked good, but there is always room for improvement," said Malecek.

One of the interesting matches of the night took place in the 126-pound class where Mark Ford won a superior decision over Mike Rincon.

Ford, with an untarnished 10-0 record, has seven pins to hit record and three superiors.

"Mark did almost everything out there but just couldn't pin him," Malecek revealed.

Belleville also hosted a triple junior varsity dual meet and managed to beat Willow Run 44-12, lost to New Boston Huron 39 to 26 and to Saline 46-17.

Medals were awarded only to wrestlers who won all three matches and Belleville was represented on the winner's dias by Bob LeMasters (112), Bob LeMasters (112), Bob Oakley (126) and Ed Frysinger (145).

Zebras win for new coach

Wayne's defense tough to crack for GC East

Tuesday, December 6, 1977 is a day that Wayne Memorial's Chuck Henry probably won't forget.

For, on that day, Henry's Zebras presented the first-year coach with his inaugural varsity basketball victory at the expense of Garden City East.

Wayne stopped Coach Billy Joe Young's Panthers, 49-45, to even up its over-all record to 1-1 on the early season. Wayne's scheduled game with Taylor Center was postponed Friday night because of the snow storm. It was been rescheduled for Jan. 31, 1978, according to Bill Hawley, Wayne's athletic director.

Outscoring the visiting East quintet 12-9 in the first quarter, Wayne managed to stay ahead at the end of the next three quarters, but couldn't shake the pesky Panthers who came within three of tying it up in the fourth period.

Wayne held advantages of 28-21 and 39-33 at the conclusion of the second and third periods.

"I felt we played a much more intensified defense," said Henry who had to contend with league-leading Fordson Tuesday night. "We held them to four baskets the first half, so I have to be pleased with the way our kids are playing defense."

East's sturdy Jim Dzieken kept the Panthers in reach of their hosts as he connected on seven field goals and five freed throws for a game high 19 points. Teammate Mike Kossick added 12.

Though none of Wayne's players reached double figures, all 12 members got into the scoring column with Kyle Poteau and Rick Sabagh splitting 16 points between them.

One problem Henry must solve is his team's horrendous shooting performance. The Zebras placed only 20 of their attempted 69 shots from the field into the nets.

"We looked bad and you can't shoot like that in this league and expect to win," Henry noted.

Spartans, Kogelschatz off to fast start in swimming

Rick Kogelschatz, one of the finest high school swimmers the area has produced, continued his personal assault on the Class B state records last week as he led the Cherry Hill Spartans to a close 43-40 victory over Riverview.

Kogelschatz brought the curtains up on his senior year with a double victory, coming within one-tenth of a second of the state 100-yard butterfly mark, a record he holds.

The 17-year-old Kogelschatz easily won the event in 53.1, serving notice that his state record is in jeopardy. That performance of 53.1 set a Riverview pool record, erasing former all-stater, Fred Jaskowski's mark from the boards.

Rick also won the 200-yard individual medley in 2:15.6, an event he swam for the first time.

Kogelschatz' teammate Scott Lillie also contributed two events — the 50-yard freestyle (23.2) and the 100-yard backstroke (1:01.8). In addition Lillie swam on the winning 200-yard medley relay team which included Jeff Wallace, Ken Pickett and Eric Wolfel.

"I think it was a good meet for some of the kids, bad for others and in between for many," said Cherry Hill Coach Jerry Pawloski. "Obviously for Lillie and Kogelschatz it was a good opener."

"Because the meet was so close," Pawloski continued, "they would like to reschedule us later in the year. It would be possible to fit them in the schedule because Riverside has dropped sports and we have an open date."

Cherry Hill has just that — an open date — today. It was scheduled

Westlander cards 278 game

Westlander Keith Andrew said, "he choked."

That was in reference to his enviable 278 game he posted at Fiesta Lanes.

Andrew fired nine consecutive strikes and going for No.10 he left the 10 pin standing and cleared that off the paths with a spare.

The Westland bowler settled for a season and league high 278 game and a series high of 740 series in the Friday Night "Kings and Queens" League.

Discussing the 278 game with his colleagues, Andrew said, "That I choked. I felt I had a good shot at bowling a 300 game...but it just wasn't in the books."

Franklin, N. Farmington clash

Whether Livonia Franklin's cage team is made of championship fiber, Coach Jim McIntyre will learn Friday night.

That's when McIntyre's Patriots will take on North Farmington, the pre-season title favorite.

"They're big," said McIntyre about North's intimidating size. "I feel the key to the game will be how we match up on the boards with them."

"If we can stop them defensively, we'll be all set," added the first year

Franklin coach.

The Livonians gave credence to the fact that they also are a serious title contender. They defeated Garden City two weeks ago and Friday night left no stone unturned to beat Thurston to quickly move to

Bulldog wrestlers strike gold at Dearborn tourney

Coach Sam Ellis' wrestlers have come of age.

Ellis, who resurrected wrestling at Robichaud High School three years ago, received outstanding performances from Nate Davis and Bob Yauck who struck gold at the Class A dominated Dearborn Invitational.

Robichaud is a Class B school.

Davis pinned Jim Russell of Walled Lake Central in 4:45 to win the 98-pound class, while Yauck walked off the mats with a gold medal after pinning Dearborn heavyweight Paul Sidor in 5:30.

The Dearborn Heights wrestlers finished fifth in a field of eight teams, scoring 20 points more than they did a year ago. Howell, with a total of 152½ team points, captured the championship with host, Dearborn, a far second with 121.

Following the two were Fordson, Walled Lake Central, Robichaud, Melvindale, Lutheran West, and Lincoln Park.

"I felt we did an excellent job," said Ellis, a former Fordson wrestler who graduated from Eastern Michigan University. "The teams that finished ahead of us are Class A schools, so we have to feel optimistic about our future because we're 'B'."

Holiday tourney

Tis the season to be jolly.

And for Holiday Basketball Tournaments.

Area prep cage fans will find an abundance of holiday tournaments to cheer about and one of the top programs will be provided by Cherry Hill where four area teams will shoot it out for tournament honors.

The four teams include Belleville,

Wayne Memorial, Westland John Glenn and Cherry Hill.

Belleville, the defending champ, will meet Wayne in the first round of the tournament at 6 p.m., December 21.

In the nightcap, host Cherry Hill plays John Glenn at 8 p.m.

The following night, Thursday, Dec. 22, the consolation game will be staged at 6 p.m. and the championship will be decided at 8 p.m.

'Change of venue'

Belleville, Salem cagers dig out of snow

The "change of venue" forced on area cage coaches by Mother Nature in the form of seven inches of snow last week has made Plymouth Salem's Fred Thomann to reassess his plans.

"We were ready to go against Dearborn last Friday," Thomann said. "We were playing well and everything was falling into pieces."

"This week we're going up against a Redford Union team that has a front line that is big: 6-6, 6-5 and 6-2, so, of course, we're going to have to make some other kind of adjustments."

Salem, which is the undefeated Suburban 8 Conference champ, has looked awesome in its three outings this year. The Rocks destroyed league rival, Allen Park, 81-54, crushed Livonia Franklin 81-35 and turned back Walled Lake Central 89-66.

Dearborn was to be Salem's second league test.

"I don't know when we'll reschedule the game with Dearborn," Thomann offered, "but, since it is a league game I'm almost certain that it will be fitted somewhere in the schedule."

Redford Union will bring a 2-1 record into Friday night's game, which the Rustics will host.

Meanwhile, Belleville, scheduled to meet Allen Park last Friday also got an unscheduled night of rest thanks to the snow storm.

Coach Tom Niemi's Tigers will return to action Friday night at Trenton, then next week will head for Cherry Hill to defend their Holiday Basketball Tournament title.

Niemi apparently has found the format for victory as his fired up cagers cooled a respectable Plymouth Canton quintet earlier in the week, 71-53.

Belleville disrupted Canton's victory plans with a sturdy defense and the sharpshooting of Kelvin Patterson and Herb Burrus.

Patterson, a 6-1 ambidextrous junior who can taunt you on defense and haunt you on offense, poured in 11 baskets for 22 points to lead the Tigers to their first victory of the season. (Belleville opened the season losing to Ypsilanti and fell to Dearborn in its only conference game thus far.)

Burrus also showed that he knows what to do with the basketball as he drilled in seven from the field and

Huron '5' stays undefeated

From past experience New Boston Huron cage Coach Gene Smith has learned not to apply "common denominators" or comparative scores to forecast the outcome of games.

When told that Airport - the Chiefs' next conference opponent beat Woodhaven by one point and that Huron won rather handily over the common opponent, Smith replied: "A long time ago I learned that this game differs every time you send your team out there. There are no constants and you never can tell what can or will happen on any given night or any given opponent."

The only "sure thing", pointed out Smith is "that the game is scheduled for Friday night here —but, again, that could change if the weather gets into the act like it did a week ago."

Huron was scheduled to meet Monroe Catholic Central but because of the snow storm the game had to be canceled until some future date.

Meanwhile the Chiefs stretched their current winning streak to four games at the expense of Woodhaven who succumbed 72-58.

It was Huron's best offensive display of the campaign and Smith didn't hesitate to make note of it: "We had four players in double figures and it was undoubtedly the best offensive showing of the season."

Huron leaped to a 24-16 first period lead on the strength of Gene Reitz' 14 points. The Chiefs then rolled to a 37-27 halftime advantage and remained ahead by 13 at the end of three periods.

Smith substituted freely as the Chiefs widened the scoring bridge by as much as 18 points midway in the finale.

Reitz pumped in 11 field goals and slipped in two free throws for 24 points, the game's high. He was supported by Gill, who had 17, Knight (16) and Pichan (11).

Knight was also Huron's top rebounder with 16 carooms.

Belleville reschedules two events

Harry Hidenfelter, Belleville High athletic director, announced today that the two athletic events cancelled by the snow storm last week have been rescheduled.

The Belleville-Allen Park basketball game will be played on Tues., Feb.14 at 6:30 p.m. at Belleville High School.

Meanwhile, the Plymouth Salem-Belleville High wrestling meet, which could determine the Suburban Athletic Conference championship, has been scheduled for Salem at 6:30 p.m., Tuesday, Feb.24.

Belleville wrestling fans should also take note that the conference meet with Livonia Bentley scheduled for Friday night at Belleville "is not in error."

Usually Belleville dual meets are held on Thursdays.

"Some of the parents asked us for a Friday night meet and since our basketball team is away we thought we would give it a try," said Hidenfelter.

Wayne to host cage tournament

Wayne Memorial will host a "freshmen holiday basketball tournament", the first of its kind in the area next week.

Teams representing the Wayne-Westland School District, including Adams, Marshall, Franklin and Stevenson junior highs, along with teams from Divine Child, Riverview, Allen Park and Dearborn Heights (Best Junior High) will clash beginning Monday in the 3-day tournament to be staged at Wayne Memorial.

"It's a first for the area," noted Church Henry, who serves as Wayne High's varsity cage coach. "We know that there are a lot of excellent freshmen ball teams in the area and this will give them an opportunity to compete against one another."

The Holiday Tournament will begin Monday at 3 p.m. with Adams taking on Allen Park. The first night program also includes Marshall vs. Stevenson at 4:45 p.m., Franklin and Riverview at 6:30 p.m. and Divine Child clashing with O. W. Best at 8:15 p.m.

The semi-final round is scheduled to begin at 3 p.m. on Tuesday, Dec. 20 while the championship round starts off at 11 a.m. on Wed., Dec.21.

Glenn 2nd at Trenton

For the want of one victory, the meet was lost.

And John Glenn had to settle for second place at the Trenton Wrestling Meet.

Coach Bob Lusk's Rockets Ann Arbor Huron 61-5, then crushed Trenton 50-13 and ran up against Monroe. The two teams finished in a 28-al deadlock but the tournament trophy went to the Trojans and not the Westlanders.

Lusk explained: "Before the tournament it was ruled in case of a tie, the team with the most victories would be awarded the match.

Monroe won six and we had five and there were two draws, so they had the edge in the number of victories, 6-5."

Lusk said he was pleased with the way his kids wrestled, especially against Monroe.

Glenn, which has won at least 10 conference titles, will open up the defense of the Northwest Suburban Conference crown Thursday night at North Farmington. The Rockets met perennial Class state power, Detroit Catholic Central, Ann Arbor Pioneer and Mt. Clemens in a triple dual Tuesday night.

Christmas gift ideas

Each year trying to find the right Christmas present for an outdoorsman becomes harder and harder. This year for my father I had a custom made folding hunting knife engraved with his initials on the handle, his name on one side of the blade, and "Pappy" on the other.

I think that this year I have finally found a gift that he doesn't already have.

Hopefully, I can offer you some suggestions that might keep you from going totally "bananas" trying to find something to buy for someone who "doesn't need anything."

Each year trying to sight in a rifle is a lot of hassle. A Scope Bore Sighter could make that job a lot easier. — About $25.

One gift that could be very handy is a ceramic knife hone. Made from a fine grain alumina ceramic with a hardness comparable to sapphire, it's an excellent tool for keeping a knife razor sharp. $1.75-$8.95.

As dump as it may sound, a good quality hunting sock made from a wool blend is always a welcomed gift. Under $5.

Another useful gift idea would be a small back pack called a day pack. It sells for under $12 and is great for carrying all the little necessities afield.

A thermos was one item that I could never keep until I got a stainless steel thermos by Alladin. It seems to keep coffee hot longer than any thermos I've found, and by not having to replace it as you do glass bottles, the $20 price is well worth it.

WYHA hockey teams sweep 3 of 4 tournament titles

Sweeping three of the four divisions, the Westland Youth Hockey Association enjoyed a fruitful Thanksgiving Holiday Hockey Tournament.

The Mite "B" division was played by teams from Wayne, Livonia and Wayne. Livonia Northstars won the final, beating Wayne Jack's Sport Center by a 6 to 4 score.

The Squirt "A" Division teams included Taylor Adray Blades II, Farmington Flyers, Detroit S.A. Industries and the Wayne Jaycees.

After a three-game Round Robin, S. A. Industries and Wayne Jaycees met in the finals with Wayne Jaycees defeating S.A. Industries by a 5 to 4 score by scoring in the closing seconds of the game.

The Squirt "B" division played a two-game knockout tournament and the teams included Wayne Johnny Howe Road Market's, Dearborn Heights Cobras, Redford Big Bills, Livonia Leafs and Wayne A.J. Williams Little Americans.

The finals was won by the Wayne Little Americans over the Livonia Leafs by a 4 to 3 score after one minute of play in the second "sudden death" overtime period.

The turkey Tournament had two divisions of Pee Wee A's.

The Pee Wee "A" Division included teams from Plymouth K-T Enterprises, Inc., Farmington I, Southgate Wolverines and Wayne Kiwanis. After the Three Game Round Robin the Wayne Kiwanis met and defeated the Southgate Wolverines by a 3 to 2 score, scoring in "sudden death" overtime.

The Pee Wee A2 division included teams from Detroit Northwest, Garden City, Melvindale V.A.K. and Farmington Flyers II. Garden City and Farmington met in the finals with Garden City taking home the trophies by defeating Farmington 3 to 2.

All games in the finals, with the exception of the Mites, were decided by one goal with two of the contests having to go into overtime "sudden death" hockey.

The Wayne Youth Hockey Association is now working on their Third Annual "Round Robin Christmas Tournament". The teams will range from Mites through Midgets for both Travel and House Teams.

Competition will begin December 20, 1977 and the finals will be played on January 2, 1978.

Robichaud's final dual meet of 1977 will be on Thursday at home against River Rouge at 4 p.m. The Bulldogs will pick up the pieces after the Christmas vacations.

Inkster also took two individual events with Derek Chisem placing first in the 200-yard individual medley (2:27.2) and Lennie Price winning the 100-yard backstroke in the 1:11.0 performance.

Hockey leader is upset victim in Over 30 league

Brock Builders apparently weren't impressed by Extra Point Bar's untarnished record in the Westland-Wayne Over 30 Men's Hockey League.

The sixth place team ripped the league-leader 6-2 last week, marring Extra Points' record and bringing to an abrupt end to an eight-game winning streak.

game with a five-goal second period as Tom Bryan's three-goal hat trick turned the tide. But Broach, Jerry Hawley and Bill Worden also scored for the winners.

Ray Erickson and Don Petere tallied the league-leaders' goals.

In other action, the Four-Seasons got another steady performance from goalie Jim Gibson and edged Tastee Freeze 3-1. Dennis Broze notched a pair of goals for the winners with Roger Hanchett accounting for the score for the losers.

Jack's Sporting Goods overcame a 3-1 Johnson Carbonic lead with a three goal spurt in the third period and went on to win a thriller, 5-4. Paul Brisse led the winners with two goals with Corky Hays, Roy Lampenis and Rich Martin adding single goals. Lee Callaway scored a pair of goals for the losers.

In the only other game, Nick Palise fired in his second goal of the night with 10 seconds remaining in the game to give Huron Valley a 4-4 tie with the 52nd Show Bar crew. Terry Carley and Chuck Heebal also got into the scoring act. Ron Wojewski, Jerry Grubbe, Bob Murray and Don Middawel all had goals.

Robichaud hosts holiday tourney

Though the defending champ will be missing from the field, Robichaud has been designated as the host school for the Third Annual Dearborn Heights High School Holiday Basketball Tournament.

Riverside, the defending two-time champ, will not field a team for the first time since the school doors opened in 1960.

Coach Don Zielinski's Rebels have been disbanded because of millage problems in the school district. Replacing the defending champs will be Taylor Kennedy.

Kennedy will dash with Robichaud Tuesday night at 8 p.m. in the second of two games on opening night. Ann Arbor and Crestwood, which recently beat its cross-town rivals, 72-69, will meet for the rematch at 6:30 p.m. The championship

Chiefs compete in new facility

Canton wrestlers are 'home' for 1st time against Western Plymouth Canton finally has a gym it can call its own.

The Chiefs, who have been sharing "Big Brother", Plymouth Salem's athletic facilities, have moved into a recently constructed gymnasium and all of their athletic competition will be held in the new facility.

Coach Dan Chrenko's wrestlers will have an opportunity to try out that facility Tuesday night when they host Walled Lake Western in the Western Six Conference opener for both schools.

Chrenko's Chiefs warmed up for their league debut by beating Livonia Bentley 60-9 in a nonleague and placing fourth at the Thurston Invitational over the weekend.

Thurston captured its own invitational with 205 points, while Plymouth Salem was runners-up with 149½ points. Then came Dearborn Heights Crestwood with 123, followed by Canton (84), Bishop Borgess, Livonia Churchill, Redford Union, and Bentley.

"We only wrestled eight kids because three others had the flu," said Chrenko, "and we won six medals, so I feel happy about the way our kids performed."

Canton claimed two gold medals on the performances of 145-pounder Scott Collins and 155-pounder Kyle Heaton.

Collins, selected the tournament's most valuable wrestler, placed his bid in for a gold by defeating Thurston's Newton in the first round in 4:36, then destroying Dearborn Heights' Gary Perelli (Crestwood) in 1:37. He beat Redford Union's Praznick on a superior decision 14-0 in the championship round.

Heaton decided Thurston's Schauder 7-3 in the finals after defeating Churchill's O'Rourke on a fall, 1:20, in the semi-finals. He also had a second period fall over Crestwood's Shirkian in the opening round.

Schauder was the weight class's top seed.

Canton earned a second place medals when Tom Herrell lost to Thurston's Arsenal 5-0 in the finals. Harrell drew a first round bye to begin the 98-pound class bout, then pinned Plymouth Salem's Schultz in 3:55 in the semis.

Catnon placed third with Dennis Howell in the 165 pound class. Howell defeated Churchill's Olive 9-2 in the consolation round, while the Chiefs were also fourth with Jeff Rey (132) and Steve Penar (112).

Chrenko sees the league race as one with the rest of the field trying to dethrone defending champ, Farmington Harrison.

"They definitely have the horses this year," Chrenko commented. "They have enough holdovers from last year to be established as the team to beat in our league."

Robichaud rips Oak Park

Warmed up with their second victory of the season, Robichaud was forced to postpone its Suburban Athletic Conference cage confrontation with Inkster because of last Friday's snows.

"We looked good against Oak Park," said Robichaud coach Francis McCauley whose Bulldogs destroyed the Parkers 72-47. "However, I don't know what to expect now."

Robichaud and Inkster were going to try to fit their game in Tuesday night. Inkster and Coach George Thompson will be the host for the first of two encounters between these two neighborhood rivals.

Robichaud wasted little time against Oak Park and a hustling Bulldog defense caused numerous Oak Park turnovers which McCauley's cagers used for easy layups.

The Dearborn Heights team established a 114 first period lead and then went on to outscore their rivals 19-11 in the second eight minutes of the would be battle to take a comfortable 30-15 lead into the locker room.

For all purposes the game was over then as McCauley, substituting freely, saw his team build up the score by outscoring the Parkers 21 to 12 in the third period and 21-20 in the finals.

Five Robichaud players reached double figures with Mike Morgan's 13 standing up as the game's high.

Seek revenge

The Romulus High School faculty will be seeking revenge for its loss last year to the Detroit Tigers basketball team when the two squads take the floor at 7:30 p.m. on Jan. 27, at the high school.

Last year, the Tigers wiped out the teachers by an 88-79 score.

Pre-game tickets are priced at $3 and tickets at the door are $3.50.

As a car pitches forward during hard stops, weight is shifted from the rear wheels. Because they then support less weight than the front wheels, they tend to lock. A proportioning valve near the master cylinder counters this tendency by partially redistributing hydraulic pressure from the rear brakes to the front brakes. Bald rear tires may, however, defeat this valve. See whether the tread on the rear tires is badly worn. The more worn the tires, the more likely the wheels will be to lock and skid.

A fully-equipped machine shop with expert mechanics qualified in all types of machine work offers quality service at KOSIN'S AUTO PARTS, 26831 Michigan Ave., Inkster. We do all types of repair work on any size and type of engine from motorcycle to diesel and from agricultural to marine. Our service is always fast, efficient and reasonably priced and all work is done right on our premises. KOSIN'S also features a vast inventory of automotive parts and accessories for both foreign and domestic cars. Call us at 563-3894. We are open daily from 8 A.M. until 8 P.M. and on Saturdays until 5 P.M. Bank Americard and Master Charge are honored. AUTO TIP: Replacing the proportioning valve requires bleeding the brake lines to remove the air from them. This procedure is best left to a skilled mechanic.
